'Fearless Pierre'

Out on a Limb

When Post reporter Frank LaPierre peers into his trusty crystal ball (which has become faded from cigar smoke and chipped by souvenir hunters) he comes up with some astonishing election outlooks. Among LaPierre's more recent predictions was the landslide victory of Indonesian President Sukarno in 1960. Admittedly, Sukarno was unopposed in the race, but it wasn't certain he would even hold the election until the last minute.

On another occasion, the veteran political reporter, along with a well-known news commentator, fearlessly predicted the downfall of then-President Harry S. Truman and the election of Thomas Dewey in 1948. Following a full week of gazing, LaPierre offers his predictions on some of the hotter contests in the November 8 elections: Governor: Ronald Reagan over Edmund "Pat" Brown. Lt. Gov: Robert M. Finch edging out Glenn M. Anderson. State Treasurer: Bert A. Betts cashiers out Ivy Baker Priest. (Sorry about that!) Supervisor 2nd District: Bob St. Clair tackles Adolph Harrison. County Assessor: Jack Estes over Thomas Noonan. State Senate: Richard Dolwig over Robert I. McCarthy. Assembly 27th District: Robert Miller nudges Leo J. Ryan. Congressional Representative: J. Arthur Younger slides over Mark Sullivan. Although voters will vote "yes" on boxing and wrestling controls (Prop. 11) they will toss out the obscenity initiative (Prop. 16).

Panel Begins Jeff Study

Members have been named to a study panel to probe personnel, board and administrative difficulties in the Jefferson Elementary School District.

Ben Mansell, assistant personnel standards executive of the California Teachers Association (CTA), said the panel will be composed of the following:

—Dr. Charles Clark, an elementary school principal in Stockton, representing the California Elementary School Administrators Association.

Guy Emanuele, chairman of the CTA Bay Section Personnel Standards and Ethics Commission.

—Fred Harmsen, a member of the Mt. San Antonio Junior College Board of Trustees.

—Mrs. Dorothy Predmore, elementary teacher, Monterey Elementary School District.

—Dr. John Whinnery, former superintendent of the Montebello Unified School District, representing the California Association of Secondary School Administrators.

Single Report When all testimony has been heard, Mansell said, panel members will integrate their findings, conclusions and recommendations into a single report.

After the report is adopted, the commission recommends what distribution it should receive.

The study now is being conducted at the Holiday Inn, 245 S. Boulevard, South San Francisco.

Responsibility for the study, requested by teachers in the Jefferson District and supported by the principals in the district, has been accepted by the Bay Section CTA Personnel Standards Commission.

Civic Center For Pacifica

Pacifica councilmen will hold a special meeting November 10 to discuss various alternatives proposed toward acquisition of a new police station and civic center.

Among the sites under consideration are the property which contains the city hall annex, the old Landi Market or the old Sharp Library building on Palmetto Avenue.

There have been several other proposals suggested, but City Manager Karl Baldwin and elected officials feel these three sites offer the best possibilities. Estimated costs of the various proposals range from $72,500 to $122,145.

$9 TAKEN Peter W. Hanschen of 461 Elm Avenue in San Bruno yesterday lost $9 to a burglar who pried open a window with a screwdriver. Leaving other valuables behind, the burglar took only two silver dollars and $7 in loose change from a dresser.

Pre-vote View of Races

How The Voters See It

Polled On The Street

By FRANK LAPIERRE If Ronald Reagan doesn't walk off with the "Oscar" in the upcoming November 8 gubernatorial race it will be the biggest upset since Harry S. Truman beat Thomas Dewey in the 1948 presidential battle. This was the consensus of a "man-in-the-street" poll conducted in the north county by this newspaper last week. With less than a week to go the majority of people claim they will cast their ballots for Edmund "Pat" Brown, but are quick to add that Reagan will be elected the next governor of California.

And if you can believe that creature of uncertain actions, the American voter, a substantial number of Democrats will openly switch sides in the fight.

San Mateo County has more than 253,000 registered voters with the Democratic party maintaining a slight edge over the Republicans.

On the local scene, one of the hardest fought battles is non-partisan.

Adolph C. "Bud" Harrison will be edged out by Robert "Bob" St. Clair for the county supervisor slot, according to the poll. St. Clair, former Daly City mayor and star 49er football star, is familiar to local residents and showed a large percentage lead over his rival in the poll.

Biggest backer of St. Clair is Daly City with Pacifica trailing in last place. Both candidates have worked long and hard campaigning for the job during recent months.

Apparently what stands tall in the eyes of many north county voters is St. Clair's determination to push such projects as a recreational area atop San Bruno mountain, plus immediate negotiations with San Francisco (Please See Page 3, Col. 7)

Galiano 'Conflict' Issue

Attorney General Slams Lid on Further Rulings

The attorney general's office has issued another letter indicating no further opinions concerning conflict of interest charges against trustee Peter Galiano would be made at this time.

In a letter of October 27, Deputy Attorney General Richard L. Mayers in response to letters from Assemblyman Leo J. Ryan, said an earlier opinion "was based on the assumption that all relevant facts had been presented."

Mayers said he had since learned that litigation against the Jefferson elementary school board by trustee Galiano was impending.

"It is the standard practice of this office to refrain from issuing opinions involving matters in which there is a factual dispute and on matters which either are being litigated or in which litigation is imminently threatened," Mayers wrote.

Galiano, a San Francisco attorney, has since dropped his suit after receiving notification of the earlier ruling by the attorney general's office.

"And as far as I'm concerned the attorney general has disposed of the matter. Further, if this isn't true then I again ask for complete investigation by the San Mateo County district attorney's office," Galiano told The Post yesterday.

Ryan's letter of October 7 to the attorney general said in part: "A Mr. Peter Galiano is presently a trustee of that school board (Jefferson Elementary) and at the same time is presently retained as an attorney by the California Teachers' Association. Is his incumbency on that board a violation of conflict of interest statutes which presently exist in this state?"

Attorney General Mayers replied Ryan's letter did not indicate that there were any contracts entered into by Galiano and the "governing board" and therefore felt no conflict of interest existed.

In a press release November 1, Board Chairman George Perry said another trustee, O. Wayne Douglas, "awakened to the news last week of Trustee Galiano being cleared of the conflict of interest charge by the attorney general" has contacted Mayers for a copy of the "opinion."

Douglas was appointed to investigate Galiano's conflict charges along with Trustee Thomas Noonan last month.

Galiano in a surprise move, filed a court injunction against his fellow trustees asking they be stopped from "gumshoeing into my private life."

"Douglas said that Mr. Mayers appeared disturbed when he learned that Trustee Galiano had sued the Jefferson District along with Chairman Perry, Trustee Noonan and Douglas in connection with the conflict matter," the unsigned release pointed out.

"I believe this matter could be quickly determined if Mr. Galiano would meet in a public meeting and answer any questions relative to his relationship with the CTA," Perry said. "This would enable the board to determine the wisest course of action insofar as the district is concerned."

Galiano said he had asked for "just such a meeting earlier" but his fellow trustees "are obviously afraid to have the district attorney investigate the district."

Ryan's second letter to Mayers on October 24 asked k any violation of conflict statutes existed as a result of Galiano's previous meetings with the CTA (now conducting a probe of the district).

Officers Beaten, Spat On Daly City's Near Riot

A mob of 500 lawless teenagers, hurling rotten vegetables and bottles charged in human waves on a thin line of 20 Daly City policemen guarding the Westlake Shopping Center Halloween. Two officers were badly beaten, another had a shirt ripped from his back, and 20 teens were arrested during the hours-long riot.

Reinforced police waded into the boiling mob and arrested the 20 who appeared to be inciting the riot.

Assistant Chief Roy Beecher earlier told his force not to use guns or clubs "unless it becomes absolutely necessary."

Rather than risk an accidental shooting or charges of "police brutality" the officers used only "physical strength" in the hours-long battle, according to Beecher.

As Officer Wendel Barnes fell to the pavement under a barrage of kicks, fists and flying missiles, Captain R. C. Sims left his patrol car and went to his aid. When the pair returned to the car they found someone had taken the car keys.

"I was standing only about five feet from the vehicle when I went to Barnes aid," Sims said.

But the milling youth were so thick both officers were swallowed up.

Another officer, John Glass, had his shirt torn from his back by the screaming teen-agers.

Reserve officers and off-duty police were called up to help quiet the milling youths, but the small force was only able to devote its energy to containing the riot to the parking lot.

Efforts to disperse the mob after it had grown "all out of proportion" were impossible," Chief Beecher said.

Armed with eggs, rotten vegetables, bottles and shaving cream, the mob threw themselves at the thin police line in wave after screaming wave.

"They seemed to want to knock us out of the way, just for the sake of plowing into us," (Please See Page 3, Col. 5)

Chase, Gunfight Follow Holdup of S.S.F. Holiday Inn

Two laughing, courteous bandits, possibly under the influence of drugs, held up the Holiday Inn in South San Francisco at gunpoint early today, exchanged shots with the Highway Patrol in a 100-mile-an-hour chase across the Bay Bridge and disappeared after a high-speed skid turn at a Nimitz Freeway off-ramp in the Eastbay.

South San Francisco police said the two men entered the lobby of the motel at 245 South Airport Boulevard about 1:30 a.m., brandished long-barreled revolvers and ordered night clerk Ron Bill to "hand over the money from the register."

As Bill lay down behind the lobby desk, the bandits stepped over him to empty the cash register.

Laughing at each other, the bandits then sauntered to the door, holding it open for an incoming guest who was trying to get his bags through it, and raced to their car.

They were described as "shabby," almost "beatnik," 25 and 35 years of age.

"They had big grins on their faces," the guest told police, a hotel official said.

The men then fled with about $350 in a late-model, brown sedan.

The motel's bellboy, returning from a trip to the airport, spotted the car moving away from the front of the building without lights on. He provided a description of the vehicle to police. Highway patrolmen spotted an automobile fitting the description of the get-away car on the Bay Bridge minutes after the robbery, and radioed guards at the toll plaza on the Oakland side.

The suspect's car slowed to a stop at the toll plaza behind a driver who had stopped to pay the toll. CHP Sergeants Bill Bradshaw and Jim Menzer, pursuing in a patrol car, stopped behind the suspects, and started walking to the car.

When the car which had stopped for the toll station pulled away, the suspects slammed their vehicle into gear and sped through the toll gates before patrolmen reached their vehicle. Bridge guards fired shotguns at the fleeing vehicle from a distance of about 100 yards.

The two patrolmen again gave pursuit, according to Lt. Eugene Davidson, this time blazing away at the fleeing vehicle with shotguns and revolvers, with both the patrol car and the suspects' auto (Please See Page 3, Col. 5)

'Knife, Fork Society' Charge, But Mayors' Council Continuing

Members of the San Mateo County Council of Mayors, licking wounds growing out of a charge at a previous meeting that they are "nothing but a knife and fork society," last night acted to avert a civil war between northern and southern county factions by naming a committee to set up bylaws within the next 30 days.

Mayor Robert Garvey, who, as a "neutral" member of the organization, was named committee chairman, took specific umbrage at the "knife and fork" charge levied by Mayor Karney Barberian of San Bruno last month.

"I always resent reference to a knife and fork society," Garvey asserted, maintaining he can "make more money by staying home than coming here. After all, a free dinner is a very minor consideration. When I come and take my time to come, I am giving a great deal more to the citizens of my city than I get from coming here for a free dinner."

Councilman James Fox of Pacifica, chairman of the group, also said he resented strongly the charge.

Fox, who was on vacation at the last meeting, opened last night's session by declaring that he had been "disturbed" by newspaper accounts of the affair.

"The Council of Mayors has been well-respected and highly thought of since its inception. It has many accomplishments and has pushed needed legislation,

This organization has accomplished considerable in spite of the fact it may not have been acting together."

Fox's statement was in reference to a check he said he had made and discovered that the group apparently never officially adopted a set of bylaws since its organization in 1959.

Fox warned at the outset: "I have no intention of letting this meeting regress to the stage of the last meeting."

Fox said he had received letters and telephone calls from Supervisors T. Louis Chess, Mrs. Jean Fassler, and Adolph Harrison; Mayors Nevin K. Hiestor of Portola Valley and Elbert Fernandez of Half Moon Bay and others all praising the group. The only exception, he said, was from Mayor James O'Connor of Millbrae. Supervisor James Fitzgerald praised the group in person.

Although mayors voted unanimously to have a bylaws committee with equal representation from the northern, central and southern sections of the county named, Millbrae's delegation made it apparent that all is still not sweetness and light.

O'Connor, noting that his council had voted to withdraw from the group, asserted, "The main thing I'm concerned about is when an issue is to be brought before this board the mayor will be allowed to take it back to his council for discussion."

Millbrae Councilman Bernard Esser, claiming that no councilman has the right to commit his city on his own, said, "I represent the city of Millbrae, and I resent anyone on my city council acting for me and I do not think we are acting in accordance with the laws of this state."

"We have seen our city favoring something in print," O'Connor added, "when we as a city do not favor it."

"It is a matter of individual cities," Vice Mayor Joseph Zucca of Belmont retorted. "How this can best be dealt with is a matter between the mayor and his council. If he feels his council trusts him, he will vote; if not, he will go back. I do not feel we can dictate to any other city."

"I've seen it ebb and flow and go by the boards because you cannot tie down mayors to any formal organization because a mayor is only one member of his city council," Mayor William Lawson of Menlo Park, a member of the group almost since its inception, declared. "The chief value is to get to know one another and exchange ideas and on occasions to be an effective voice in the interests of the County of San Mateo."

"It is assumed we meet here in a spirit of good will. Recently, in attempts to organize a regional government, the mayors were called upon to name representatives to various boards. Regardless of the past, we are going to be forced to go into a formal organization if we wish to preserve local government."

"If we do not get together and solve our problems, Sacramento will solve them for us, and we shall have little to say. If we falter, to the extent we withdraw, we give up the opportunity for local control. We must formalize and we must get together and solve this thing now."

Pacifica Bid For Pageant

"Miss California" pageant directors in Santa Cruz were to meet last night to decide whether or not "Miss Pacifica" will compete in the statewide pageant next year.

Stan Vander Hule, executive director of the Pacifica pageant, met with representatives of the state pageant organization and directors of the "Miss San Mateo County" pageant in San Mateo Wednesday night for final discussions on the city's bid for an entry in the state competition.

Vander Hule said directors of the Pacifica pageant have been attempting to gain certification from the state level organization and the "Miss America Pageant" at Atlantic City, N. J., for more than two years.

Directors of the "Miss San Mateo County" pageant hold the franchise for the state pageant in the county. The Pacifica organization has presented a plan under which two contestants from San Mateo County would participate in the state event.

"Many of our neighboring counties are currently entering more than one contestant in the state competition," Vander Hule said, "and there is no good reason why San Mateo County, with over a half million population, must be restricted to one entrant."

Four contestants from Santa Clara County participated in last year's state pageant, the Pacifica director said, and that county has entered as many as seven.

"Obviously, the greater the number of contestants entered from any given county, the greater that area's chances are of providing a Miss California or a Miss America," Vander Hule said.

In order to be represented in the "Miss California" pageant, a regional pageant must meet standards stipulated in the state and "Miss America" pageant regulations.

The general quality of the pageant and amount of local interest and support are also determining factors.

In the case of Pacifica's application, the recommendations of the county pageant directors will "carry a lot of weight," Vander Hule said.

The Pacifica Pageant, presented annually for the past 10 years, is one of the most popular local productions of its type, and was attended by more than 2,000 persons this year.

Supervisory Elections

Daly City Asks a Change

Members of the County Board of Supervisors said last week they would not be afraid to authorize an election to change the method of their election.

The matter was referred to County Mgr. E. R. Stallings to investigate the possibility of having an independent study made.

A delegation from Daly City called upon the board in Redwood City yesterday to demand that the supervisors allow an election on a charter amendment to make board members elective by district, rather than in the county at large as at present. Spokesman for the group was Bernard Lycett, who said he represented the city council of Daly City, the Northern County Council of Cities, and the Daly City Chamber of Commerce. Lycett said the proposal had also been endorsed by the cities of San Bruno and South San Francisco.

"The basis of our proposal," Lycett told the board, "is—let the people decide."

Lycett declared that supervisors should be elected by district because (1) under the present system there is no provision for accountability to the voters of a particular district; (2) incumbents are "frozen" into office and rarely have opposition; (3) incumbents, by virtue of their position, have money and "sensationalism" at their disposal to enhance their image; (4) the at-large system dulls voters' interest and makes them apathetic, and (5) pressure group influences are inherent in the present system.

Lycett pointed out that Board Chairman T. Louis Chess has not had an opponent for election since he first ran in 1958, that former supervisors Alvin S. Hatch and Edward R. McDonald served 28 and 24 years, respectively, and that William M. Werder has been on the board for 16 years.

"You cannot convince me," he asserted, "that these supervisors are so competent that they should not have opposition."

Peter Markovich, manager of the Daly City Chamber of Commerce, declared that many call to run county-wide.

Haul Law Revamp

A United States Appeals Court decision upholding San Bruno's trucking ordinance last week will allow the city to proceed with plans to revamp the ordinance and add several new regulations, Mayor Karney Barberian said today.

The mayor and city council appointed a "dirt-haul committee" to survey the trucking situation about two months ago, and the committee has completed its report and made several recommendations.

"We have been delaying action on the new proposals until this lawsuit was settled," the mayor said.

The council will "more than likely take up the committee report at the next meeting," Barberian said. The next scheduled council meeting is November 7.

The appeals court in San Francisco overruled a 1964 decision of Superior Court Judge Wayne Millington in Redwood City and awarded the city of San Bruno a $26,607 judgment against South San Francisco trucking contractor Nicholas Ratkovich.

WOMAN BURNED

A Daly City woman was slightly burned last Friday, when her car caught fire on Park Plaza Drive. Joy Venosa, 2201 Valleywood Drive, was treated and released at Mary's Help Hospital. The fire apparently started from a gas leak, police said, and was quickly extinguished.

500 Teen-agers Erupt in D. C.

one officer remarked.
Captain Sims in his report said:

"They (the teen-agers) showed a complete disrespect for authority, disrespect for the security of private persons who were attempting to pursue their way of life and business in the area."

A group of some fifty teen-agers began forming in the parking lot around 7 p.m. Within an hour the mob swelled to 500 cursing, egg throwing teen-agers.

Splattering passing motorists with eggs and rotten vegetables, the mob nearly all boys, slowly edged toward a bowling alley across from the lot.

Police moved in and tried to stop the mob from crossing to the street.

The teen-agers diverted their attention away from the bowling alley to the pathetically small police force out in front of them and started tossing eggs, bottles and shouting curse words.

As the din grew, officers singled out apparent ringleaders and bundled them into waiting (egg stained) patrol cars and off to jail.

Senior Housing Is Vote Issue

A survey conducted several months ago by the San Mateo County Housing Authority indicates about 200 elderly residents of Pacifica are eligible for low-rent senior citizen housing under "usual standards for qualification."

California state law requires a referendum on all low-rent housing developments. A proposal similar to Proposition A was voted down in Pacifica several months ago.

If the proposition is passed, an application for federal funds will be entered by the San Mateo County Housing Authority. The federal loan will then be repaid from rental income on the apartments.

Backers of the proposal have stressed the fact that there will be no property tax cost and "it will add nothing to the tax rate."

If the proposition is passed, there will still be no guarantee that federal funds for the project will be granted, according to Harvey Kroll, Federal Housing Authority representative for this area.

"A number of factors are involved in determining whether federal funds will be allocated to projects of this type," Kroll said, "including availability of funds."

Federal law also requires that standards for admission be set regarding income and financial situation of applicants.

"The regulations governing admission to federal housing units are generally the same as those which apply to Social Security applicants," Kroll said. "Prospective tenants must be at least 62 years old and meet the requirements on income and property ownership."

The San Mateo County Housing Authority operates a senior citizen housing development, Half Moon Village, in Half Moon Bay. Built in 1963, the project contains 50 occupied units, with another 10 under construction to meet an increasing list of applications.

However, "there has been some confusion on the part of Pacifica residents regarding the Half Moon Bay project," according to county housing director Frank Bloom.

"The development in Pacifica, if approved by the voters and the federal housing authority, will not be exactly the same

D.C. Man Murdered; Gun Duel?

Two new avenues of investigation are under scrutiny today by San Francisco homicide inspectors in the slaying of Daly City chiropractor Dr. Harold G. Belasco last Thursday night.

First, why was Dr. Belasco's .38-caliber revolver, found near his crumpled body in front of 661 Tenth Avenue, fired six times? Was it fired at the slayer during a foot chase from the doctor's offices around the corner at 909 Balboa Avenue?

Or were the two bullets (not three as had been earlier reported) which tore the life out of the 64-year-old doctor from the victim's own gun?

Latest police thinking is that the murderer intended to rob Dr. Belasco inside his office.

The doctor, who often boasted he would never be robbed, might have chased the man from the office and pursued him down the street in a running gun battle, police theorize.

There is also the "two-gun theory," a new development in the case which police did not care to elaborate on this morning.

Latest police thinking on the latter is that the doctor emptied his own gun at the killer while chasing him down the street.

Asked if there was a "blood trail" away from the scene of the killing (along the suspected route the murderer took) a police inspector said "this is still under investigation and I can not comment on it at this time."

Criminologist John Williams was still studying "all the facts in the case," including the two-gun theory, the inspector said.

Supporting this suspicion is the fact that an eyewitness saw a man wearing a dark suit, white shirt but no tie, running from the scene toward Park Presidio Drive with a gun in his hand.

Earlier, a thin man in his forties, wearing such a suit, was seen in the doctor's waiting room.

Bloodmobile Unit To Be at Pacifica

The Bloodmobile Unit will be at the Sharp Park School, Saturday, from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

The visit of the mobile unit has been arranged by Mizpah Fellowship, sponsors of the Pacifica Blood Bank for the past 13 years. Anyone donating to the Pacifica Fund will be credited with the donation and if in the future need blood, will have top priority.

Mizpah stresses the fact, that it is better to donate before it is needed, rather than be forced with the prospect of locating replacement after borrowing from the bank.

No food should be eaten four hours prior to donating, but a pancake breakfast is served all donors immediately after by Mizpah.

For information pertaining to the bank, contact Mrs. Grace Ayers, 355-2580.

The robbery suspects headed toward Oakland on the Nimitz Freeway then turned off onto the Cypress Street ramp. At the ramp, the driver threw the car into a "false spin" or racing drift, executed a 360-degree turn at high speed, then sped off in the other direction, Davidson said.

Patrolmen Bradshaw and Menzer turned their car around, spotted a speeding vehicle on the freeway and gave pursuit. It was not the same car.

An estimated 60 shots were fired at the suspects during the chase.

Their car was found abandoned about 6 a.m., with bullet holes in its rear.

Several expended pistol cartridges were on the floor.

How the Voters View the Election

for part of that county's Crystal Springs watershed area.

Another favorite to score a win in his bid for re-election is congressional Representative J. Arthur Younger whose determined opponent, Mark Sullivan, polled slightly less than 32 per cent of the votes.

Some 14 per cent haven't made up their minds yet.

Richard J. Dolwig (another Post-Times recommendation), was likewise given the nod over opponent Robert I. McCarthy in the Twelfth District state senatorial race.

Undoubtedly the closest contest will be between incumbent Leo J. Ryan (Twenty-seventh District) and realtor Robert N. Miller. Many people predicted (by way of expressing their choice) that IF Reagan wins, and IF a larger number of south county voters change present attitudes, Miller will be carried into office.

But Ryan's name is more familiar to the local citizenry. Any way one looks at it, the Ryan-Miller finals will be close.

The so-called "undecideds" could make the difference in the county assessor's race between assistant assessor John H. Estes and school board trustee Thomas F. Noonan.

Although Noonan is familiar to north county residents, but a higher percentage said Estes' experience in the county assessor's office would be helpful in electing him to the post.

Surprisingly, the majority of those polled felt the Obscenity Initiative (Proposition 16) should be voted down.

"Where do you draw the line on state controls?" asked one man, while a housewife remarked "I think a person should decide for himself what they want."

To the question: would you vote for a woman for state treasurer? A n overwhelming "no" from those polled.

What worries most candidates is the voting public's mounting apathy toward any and all elections.

Pacifica Seeks Through Rates

Stanley Farber, chairman of the Pacifica Chamber of Commerce freight rate study committee, said Tuesday, "Progress has been made toward getting through rates to Pacifica."

Farber and Chamber of Commerce Manager Bernie Lake will appear before the public utilities commission board in Reno, December 1, to request through rates from Nevada.

IN FURNISHING, START WITH A "FLOOR PLAN"

If you want to "decorate" instead of just "furnish," start with a floor plan. If you do not have an architect's original floor plan, take a yard stick or tape measure and measure all your walls, the width of your doors and windows, and the height of windows from the floors.

Make a sketch showing all of the necessary dimensions and then sketch in the furniture pieces you plan to use. If you would like someone to help you, we shall be glad to take these measurements and make this lay-out for you.

In this way, you are eliminating the guess work and you may then select pieces that will not only fit into your home but will fit perfectly. This is the only sensible and correct way to do a real decorating job in your home. You must know just what will fit into your room and your wall space before buying.

Call 756-7500 or stop in. We'll be glad to help you with no obligation. It's part of our free decorator service. And it's the smart way to decorate. Our decorators, here at Sterling Furniture in Westlake Shopping Center, are at your service, no matter what your decorating problem may be. We are open Wednesday and Friday evenings 'til 9 p.m. for your shopping convenience.

Louanne's DATEBOOK

By Louanne Heath

It's time to dust off those dancing slippers and prepare for the succession of balls which always accompany the winter weather!

The word for today is HURRY if you plan to enjoy the extravagantly elegant annual Fuchsia Ball. Mrs. Joanne Moulton, publicity chairman for the Mary's Help Hospital Guild, the sponsoring organization, added a note of urgency to her information about the ball by saying that all requests for reservations must be received prior to this Friday.

A Peninsula locale has been selected for the first time by the Fuchsia Ball committee and North Peninsula residents are bound to be pleased to learn they won't have to brave downtown San Francisco traffic and parking. Mrs. Rodney Page, chairman of the ball, and co-chairman Mrs. Donald Monahan, announced that the fete will be held in the ballroom of the Brentwood Lodge in South San Francisco. The date has been set for November 12, with dancing and dining scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. and continuing until 1:30 a.m.

Eddie Harkness and his orchestra will be providing the music and Mrs. Donald McNab and Mrs. Robert Barbieri will be setting the scene with fanciful decorations.

To make reservations, call Mrs. Donald Gordon, PL 6-4914 or Mrs. John Grealish, PL 6-0573. Tickets are being sold for $15 per couple, Mrs. Moulton stated.

MR. AND MRS. Murray Freedman, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Rigetti and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rossi were among the Daly City residents taking part in the fun at the Phoebe A. Hearst Pre-school Learning Center Saturday night.

The local contingent, decked out in a wild assortment of costumes, were among the guests at the Golden Gate Kindergarten Association Auxiliary's members only Halloween party.

The evening of dining and dancing was arranged by the provisional members of the unit, according to Mrs. Selmar Monro, publicity chairman.

MEMBERS of the Holy Angels Women's Guild will meet this evening in the parish hall for the regular monthly business session, according to Mrs. George Sigie, publicity chairman.

Planned as a highlight of the program will be the presentation of the film, "The Parable," by Mrs. James McLoughlin, vice president and program chairman.

Mrs. Sigie indicates that also of major concern to president, Mrs. Robert Simon, and the membership at large, will be the presentation of final plans for the fall rummage sale by chairman Mrs. Raymond Fellman and her co-chairman Mrs. John Flemer.

The sale will be held on November 18 and 19 in the parish hall and already the process of collecting salable rummage is well underway, Mrs. Sigie said. Anyone with items, large or small, which they would like to donate to the sale is urged to call Mrs. Fellman, 755-2127, or Mrs. Flemer, 756-9467, to arrange for pick-up service.

DEBBIE MOE and Laurie Macaulay will be the stars on the play, "The Trap," when it is presented before an audience of youth group members from Lakeside Presbyterian on November 11 at Westminster Woods.

MEMBERS of the Beta Sigma Chapter of the Epsilon Sigma Alpha International will hear a report on the sorority's Bay Peninsula Regional Council meeting held recently in Santa Cruz when they gather for their monthly session this evening.

Mrs. Edward J. Delaney will entertain the ladies in her home assisted by Mrs. Robert Thompson, co-hostess.

According to Mrs. Esther Hall, the publicity chairman, members of the sorority will begin selling John F. Kennedy Flame of Hope candles as a part of the unit's service project. The candles, made by mentally retarded trainees, are sold to raise funds for the Aid to the Mentally Retarded program.

Members of Cadet Troop 2791, Girl Scouts of America, will be the hostesses of a Welcome to Scouting party honoring 11 young misses who will be invested into Brownies next week, according to Mrs. Jo Burn, of Westlake.

The 11 initiates, all students at Christopher Columbus School, are Cindy Burn, Susan Hill, Cheryl Hinterman, Vickie Klene, Patricia Klous, Denise McDermott, Candice Olberg, Joan Rainville, Leslie Schwarzbach and Joyce Steinberg. Mrs. Denise Schwarzbach will be the investing officer. Leaders of the troop are Mrs. Burn and Mrs. Barbara Franke.

EDOUARD RODITI, currently visiting professor of poetry at San Francisco State College and author, lecturer, art critic and linguist, will be the special guest of the Art Guild of Pacifica on November 14, according to word in the Dirty Palette, the guild newsletter.

Roditi will speak on "Art in Europe," beginning at 8 p.m. in the Pacifica Library in Sharp Park. Hosts for the evening will be Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Poehleman.

SUNDAY, November 13, has been selected as the date for the Ignatian Guild of St. Ignatius High School to present the Celebrity Auction at Ignatian Gazebo, according to publicity woman Mrs. Harold Greer.

Mrs. Frank Burns is the chairman of the event and has announced that she will be very happy to arrange for pick-up of items anyone might wish to donate to the auction. More information on such donations may be obtained by calling 756-2144.

The annual fund-raising affair will be held in the St. Ignatius High School gym, 222 Stanyan Street in San Francisco, from 3 until 7 p.m. The proceeds will be deposited in the building fund for the new S.I. plant in the Sunset. Start of construction of the high school is planned for next January.

THE Riordan Guild will meet next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in Chaminade Hall, with Mrs. William Essig presiding.

John Rubia, dean of students, will be the guest speaker and he has announced that his topic will be "The Problems that Our Teen-agers Face."

Mrs. Albert Buccell, publicity chairman, includes the announcement that Mrs. Vincent Murphy and Mrs. Thomas Boeck Jr., will present a complete report on the fashion show and luncheon held this past weekend.

THE POST Comment and Feature

'Take Good Hard Look,' and Vote For Bob Miller

On October 19 The Post recommended the election of Robert N. Miller as Assemblyman for the Twenty-seventh District. This is a re-affirmation of the same recommendation which concluded by asking the voters of the district to take a good, hard look at the incumbent and an equally good, hard look at Robert N. Miller, "businessman, veteran, and a candidate who really wants to serve them well and unselfishly."

The Post gave negative reasons because they are precisely the reasons for ousting Assemblyman Ryan. The fact that the "negative" does not militate against them.

The Post charged that Assemblyman Ryan dodged his assignment to prepare the official argument against Proposition 1-a and submitted an argument prepared by another legislator. In a letter Ryan did not deny this. He only said: "There has been so much discussion of this in the headlines that I doubt that any further discussion of the story would do any good." From Ryan's viewpoint this is undoubtedly correct—he probably wishes that no one would discuss it.

The Post also charged that the San Mateo Union High School District terminated an arrangement under which Ryan was drawing pay as an educator while also drawing pay and allowances as an Assemblyman. Ryan did not deny this. He said that other people are doing it. But how many people are doing it like Ryan?

His opponent gave chapter and verse on this while Ryan sat silent at a public meeting. Miller, unchallenged, cited that in 1965, "the incumbent collected $14,221.80 from the state government. This was $6,000 in his legislative pay, and $8,221.80 in per diem, living expenses and mileage. That mileage included a nice trip to Puerto Rico at the taxpayers' expense when he charged us 15 cents a mile. His bill came to $1,880.70; nearly three times the actual cost of transportation."

In addition rival candidate Miller said that during the same year Ryan "was also making a tidy sum" as a teacher. How much? "In 1965 my opponent," said Miller, "collected (from the High School District) $5,801.24. During that year he taught 33 days only. He was therefore paid $175.79 for each day he taught."

There is no need to labor this point, or another Post charge that he falsely claimed Congressman J. Arthur Younger had made a "deal" to retire in July so that the Republican Central Committee could appoint someone as candidate. Ryan answers, "I have admitted my error."

Nor did Ryan even bother to deny his close connection with Speaker Jesse (Big Daddy) Unruh whose chief interests are in southern California and not in San Mateo County.

As it recommended before, The Post says take a good, hard look at Ryan and an equally hard look at Candidate Robert N. Miller.

"Those who take that good, hard look will vote for Robert N. Bob Miller for Assemblyman of the Twenty-seventh District."

In case anyone other than Pacifica Police Chief Neil Tremaine is still interested, here is a brief history of the good ship USS Johnson:

Navy records at Mare Island indicate the ship was launched January 12, 1944, and commissioned April 15 of the same year. After commissioning, it was dispatched to the Atlantic for convoy duty, escorting ships to Sicily, North Africa, and various other ports.

During the final year of World War II, the Johnson was transferred to the Pacific and served in the Philippines and New Guinea area. In 1946, she was transferred to Mare Island and used as a training ship. The Johnson was decommissioned and placed in "mothballs" in 1957.

The ship was named for Marine Private George A. Johnson, a Silver Star medal winner who was killed in action on the island of Tulagi during the war.

Today's Kids Are Not So Bad Department: Thomas Notaro, principal at Jefferson Elementary School in Daly City, received an extraordinary letter this week from a Belmont resident regarding an incident involving two of his students. The following was from Mrs. Patricia Woods:

"I have a story to tell you. I lost my wallet with a credit card, $56 in cash, plus miscellaneous pictures last night at Hillcrest and Mission Street. Three youngsters found same and returned it to me intact. These youngsters go to your school, and I wish you to know of their honesty."

The children are Robin and Stacey Smith, 184 Santa Cruz Avenue, Daly City, and Raymond Misrahi, 173 Santa Cruz Avenue, Daly City."

WOULDN'T YOU KNOW IT: That Board is talking about building another school—right on Old San Andreas' fault. There happens to be a stable there on the site at present. Imagine sending your children off to school—to a school which might not be there when they arrive. In 1957 Daly City was given a new beach after Mother Nature shook us up a little.

The Marquee Hillbarn Amateurs

Barbara Bladen

Hillbarn Little Theater never considers it an insult to be called "amateur." Nor do they smart under any competition from the professional theaters in the area. They just blithely, efficiently and charmingly put out excellent entertainments.

Such is the case with their current production of "See How They Run," a delightful little British comedy, unpretentious and slightly corny but with a polish and flair and lighthearted spirit.

Walk by the Carlmont Shopping Center resident this weekend on Friday or Saturday at 8:30 p.m. or Sunday at 7:30 p.m. and the infectious community rapport surrounding the box office and lobby will make you want to go in and sit down. From then on, you'll be captivated with its candor, laugh at its preposterousness and clap over its lively tempo.

With a little sabotage from set designer Sam Rolph, the hot water bottle will break when actor Wayne Warren sits on it, as it did on opening night, and add that extra fillip of fun as a surprised cast wades through the act with damp clothing and the audience regales at the impromptu accident.

THE NONSENSICAL FARCE about a vicarage in England and unorthodox events that befall it following a succession of unexpected arrivals, mistaken identities and unforeseen interruptions, is as refreshing as a Margaret Rutherford comedy-mystery.

The fun begins when the vicar's wife (Laurie Prokop) suggests a trip to another town to see a little theater production of "Private Lives" to an old acquaintance, her former leading man in the theater who is stationed at a nearby army camp. Her husband is out for the evening and the soldier changes into the vicar's second-best cleric's suit and hides his uniform in a chest.

The chain of circumstances links disaster with incredible and riotous repetition as first an escaped German prisoner (Eugene Dyer) terrorizes the household, a frustrated spinster busybody (Barbara Whittemore) imagines she's witnessed a clandestine love affair between the vicar's wife and soldier, the Bishop (Frank Prendergast) arrives for a visit a day earlier than expected and the soldier is mistaken as the vicar.

Through this maze of foolishness runs a Cockney maid played with devastating anxiety and flippancy by Melody Marion, the Vicar (James McClellan) who plays most of the show in his "wooly one-piece" as his underwear is called, and Reverend Humphrey (Ken Johnson) a visiting cleric who has come to say the morning sermon. Harry Brunson, as an Army sergeant, tries to sort out the room of white-collared imposters to arrest the right one and restore order to the chaotic assemblage.

ALL THIS TAKES PLACE IN A MODEST but cozy living room setting with an important closet in which to dispose of unconscious bodies as the main focus of attention.

Director Bob Brauns has given this farcical theatrical prank a jovial touch, knowing how much audiences like to lose themselves in such antics.

The cast is uniformly excellent. They make it all seem so easy, so natural and so convincing. It's an ideal play with which to win new audiences to Hillbarn, the kind of occasional theater-goers who don't give a hang about messages, or drama or psychological probings into the problems of mankind.

Hillbarn will turn to stronger fare in December with "After the Fall," but for the next two weeks, laughter and relaxation are what the Marquee recommends.

Teacher Recorded Meteor Shower

Jeff Man Subs For Professor

By LAURI SARRUBI

Pick up the October issue of Sky and Telescope, turn to page 235, and you'll see and read about Reno Taini, who teaches life sciences at Jefferson High.

Sky and Telescope is a magazine monthly, and the article in which Taini is mentioned deals with summer expeditions when photographs were taken of falling meteors.

These meteor showers occurred in August.

Taini, accompanied by his wife, spent most of his summer in the Sierras. He traveled from the Yosemite Valley to Mt. Whitney, along the John Muir Trail which extends for 200 miles.

Jefferson Scene

HE was on this trip for two reasons.

He wanted to "get in shape," and to get pictures of high altitude rocks and plants for his classes.

In early August, at Mt. Whitney, he sought pictures of the sunrise and sunset from the top. He started out at 3 a.m. for the peak, on his back, a 45 pound pack, which included a tiny gas pressure stove.

At 12,000 feet, he met a man with many cameras and light meters, revealed as a professor from Pepperdine College in Los Angeles. The professor was tired and sick, unable to go on. He asked Taini to take the cameras to the top, photograph and record the meteor showers.

These pictures had to be taken with a special Kodak infrared film.

Taini, though he knew he could make it to the top, knew little about stars.

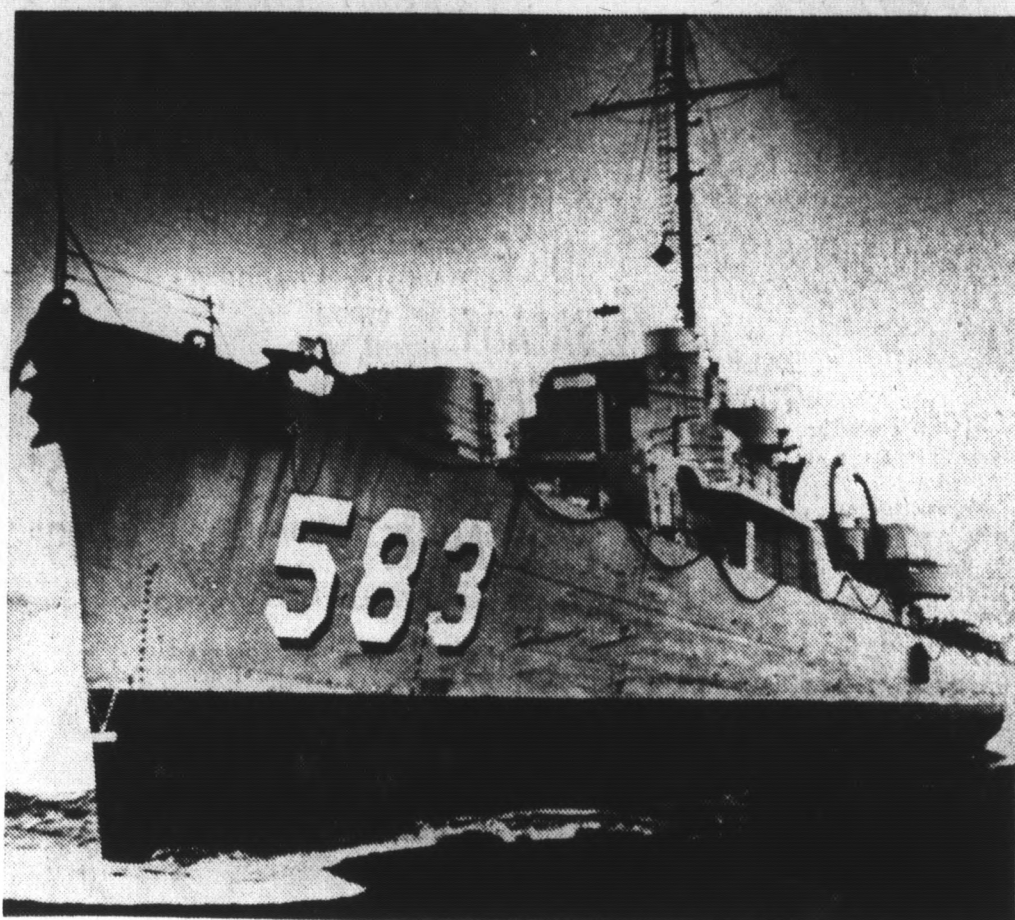

ARRIVING at the summit at 3 p.m., he met other observers and set up camp. After dark, he began to take the special pictures. On the second day, he took infrared scenes from the mountain peak — this film penetrating through the haze.

The shots were experimental. He also kept accurate records of each picture. Then after one more day of shooting, he made a seven-hour trip down.

He turned over all his information to Pepperdine College and continued his trip through the Sierras.

Now, he awaits copies of the rare, clear films to use in his classes.

"I learned an awful lot in a short amount of time, about stars, photography, and college professors," Taini said. "The trip was great, but it was all for my students here at Jefferson and I couldn't wait to get back, because I'm proud to teach here."

Ghosts—They Still Exist!

Samuel Chandler

Ghosts still exist! Ask Hans Holzer. Here in the middle of the 20th Century, apparitions of persons long dead drift through picture windows to disrupt the operations of mechanized homes and computerized business.

WITNESS the experiences of the Sid Mularney Co., motorcycle dealers of Leighton Buzzard in England. The press of business demanded the removal of a partition that divided the ancient building that Mularney used as a workshop. But the ghost of a basket maker who had hung himself in this very shop objected. To show his displeasure, he made cycles run without riders and wrenches dance off the hooks.

Mularney was patient with this bothersome ghost until he found him dunking bolts in the tea — Then he sent for the ghost hunter, Hans Holzer.

Holzer called upon the ghost to discontinue annoying the present owners of the place. He explained that the nature of the business required the remodeling, even though it interfered with the ghost's memory picture. Then he left his card and departed.

THE GHOST accepted the explanation and went away grieving for a society that has replaced the gentle art of basket weaving with such vulgar things as motorcycling.

Most modern ghosts are called "poltergeists." Their main stock in trade is to create noises and misplace things in the most bothersome manner. There are still some old fashioned ghosts around, however, like the gray lady who floats across haunted bedrooms and up and down stair cases.

The gray lady haunts Sawston Hall in Cambridgeshire, England. In the middle of the night, the occupants of this famous old house, hear her knocking at the door of the room that was used by Bloody Mary when she was hiding from the soldiers of her brother, Edward VI. Always this lady ghost makes three slow raps at the door. Then the door slowly swings open and she floats across the room and disappears into the tapestry.

ONE GIRL felt her breathe. The current mistress of the house and some of the neighbors heard her play tinkly music, like that from a spinet or a virginal.

Everyone who has seen the gray lady believes her to be the ghost of Queen Mary, herself, whose soul has returned to the house that proved to be a refuge for her Catholic followers during the persecutions permitted by Protestant monarchs.

Information about the gray lady and other poltergeists are found in a book that makes good reading during the Halloween season. "Ghosts I've Met," by Hans Holzer.

It is the author's second volume — the first was "Ghost Hunter." Both are reports of Holzer's experiences as a parapsychologist, who has specialized in the fields of extrasensory perception and psychic experiences. For twenty years he has followed ghosts through haunted houses and along spooky roads.

Of all the poltergeists that Mr. Holzer has met, none are stranger than a group that are the ghosts of former renters of a house in Los Angeles. They throw parties with champagne and the works. They fight. One of them, a child, cries all night for its parent's love.

UNFORTUNATELY, they are doomed to live as ghosts for a long time, for the lady of the house refuses to follow the advice of a medium, who has been told how to get rid of them.

If you don't believe all this, read Holzer's epilogue to "Ghosts I've Met." "I am convinced that there is, indeed, another world where life continues to function on a mental basis. I am convinced there is evidence that warrants scientific acceptance of a nonphysical component in human personality, one that transcends the grave."

Trick or treat, anyone?

Better Business

Many Don't Make Wills—'Tragedy'

Lorene Beasley

Everyday probate courts handle the estates of astute business men and women who either had balked at the idea of making a will or who had just not take the time.

The great tragedy is that a great number of these people were well aware that their procrastination in drawing up a will might result in expense and possible grief for their heirs.

Failure to make a will results in the state distributing an estate according to the "Law of Succession," which is based on average conditions. The law makes no distinction as to the possible needs of the heirs and no provision for reserve money for a possible emergency period. It contains no provision for the continuances of a business.

THE estate of a resident of California, where all property acquired during marriage while a resident of that state, is community property (excluding property received as a gift or inheritance and real property outside of California), will go to the surviving spouse and not to the children.

There are nine possible ways non-community property can be divided in California:

1—At death of husband or wife, with no descendants, all property goes to surviving spouse.

2—At death of husband or wife with one surviving child, the surviving spouse receives half and the child half. Descendants of deceased child receive the deceased child's share.

3—At the death of a wife or husband and no descendants but a father and mother, one-fourth goes to each parent. If only one parent survives, half goes to surviving parent. 4—At the death of a widow or widower or a single person with no descendants, parents, brothers, sisters or their descendants, all property goes to next of kin.

5—At death of husband or wife with two or more surviving children, on-third goes to surviving spouse and two-thirds is divided among the children. Descendants of deceased child or children take deceased share.

6—At death of a widow or widower or single person with parents but no descendants, half goes to the father and half to the mother. All property goes to a surviving parent.

7—At death of widow or widower or single person and no parents or descendants but brothers and sisters, all property goes to brothers and sisters. The descendants of a deceased brother or sister takes the parents' share.

8—If the deceased leaves only brothers and sisters and no parents or descendants, half goes to wife or husband and half to brothers and sisters. Descendants of deceased brothers or sisters take share of parents.

9—The estate of a widow or widower, where there is one child or more, is divided equally among the children.

To make sure the wishes of the State Legislature will not be substituted for your wishes in the distribution of your estate, the Better Business Bureau advises you to consult an attorney when drawing up a will.

Proposition 3 Defeat Urged

As everyone knows, good intentions are often shortsighted and bring about results quite contrary to those desired. To The Post this appears to be the case with State Ballot Proposition No. 3. The intent of this measure, the preservation of "open space," is laudable. The effects are apt to be contrary to the intent.

The method Proposition 3 would use for its ostensible purpose is actually another case of authorizing the Legislature to favor certain kinds of scenic, natural resource, or agricultural value with a special tax shelter by establishing a special basis of assessment of these lands. It would be a departure from the constitutional requirement of equal treatment in the assessment of property on the basis of market value irrespective of current use.

The most cogent argument against this is that it would simply shift the resulting tax burden to other taxpayers.

Under Proposition 3 the legislature would have a "blank check" for defining "open space" lands and it is without long term restrictions or the projected tax shelter.

Opponents correctly argue that the measure would interfere with the natural economic forces that establish the market value of land and permit owners and speculators to hold land under low assessment until ready to sell in a future market. The opponents also declare that exemption from mineral rights would make this projected law a haven for oil and mining operators.

There is good reason to believe that the measure would really harm the rights of the public to open spaces since those created under it would be in private ownership and create an artificial land scarcity forcing up land prices. Developers would have to economize on park and recreation space and public acquisitions of land for park purposes would be subject to exorbitant prices.

In San Mateo County it should be noted that, under the somewhat similar Land Conservation Act of 1965 (which permits owners of eligible agricultural to contract with a city or county to limit use to agriculture for 10 years with resultant tax benefits) the distributing of equal assessment principles can adversely affect the revenues of school districts. For that matter the Land Conservation Act of 1965 obviates any necessity for Proposition 3 if its intent is truly meant to benefit agriculture.

There needs to be an end to special interest "tax tinkering" and the defeat of Proposition No. 3 is a good place to start.

Proposition 13

State Ballot Proposition No. 13 would remove from the State Constitution the requirement that each taxpayer shall annually file a property statement. No opposition to this proposal has appeared and the Times recommends a "Yes" vote on Proposition No. 13.

Many assessors have felt his annual property statement to be unnecessary and have not asked for it. Some others have made perfunctory efforts to obtain these statements and have found them largely ignored by taxpayers.

In effect Proposition No. 13 deletes a constitutional requirement that is no longer needed.

Math Club Tutors At Westmoor

Recently initiated by the Westmoor High School Math Club was a tutoring system for that school's math subjects.

Members of the club have been named chairmen in charge of the tutoring of the various math subjects.

Pre-algebra subject, including basic math, general math, and survey of algebra will be tutored under the chairmanship of Helen Lichtman.

Michael Strauch will be chairman of the group tutoring confused first-year algebra students and one of the tutors of geometry will be chairman Larry Diamond. The chairman of those tutoring advanced algebra students will be Betty Hodgskiss. Dick Thill was to be the chairman of the fourth year math, advanced math seminar students.

Altogether, 14 students will be tutoring others, in any subject they desire, if they are eligible, by Math Club standards.

The Math Club requires that a student by presently receiving an "A" in the subject he is tutoring or that he has taken the subject and received either an "A" or a "B."

Each Wednesday Math Club members are available, along with the club adviser, Edward Terzin, to give help.

S.S.F. Is Heavy Favorite Friday

DeJong Fields Reserves Against H.M.B.

Unbeaten South San Francisco is heavily favored to hand Westmor High its second defeat in a row Friday night. Westmor fell to the Vikings of Mills High School in interleague play last Friday. A winless Half Moon Bay eleven will meet Oceana at the Pacifica stadium Friday afternoon. The Oceana eleven will be recovering from a 32-7 defeat at the hands of Jeff High on Saturday, just a week after their humiliation in a one-sided hometown match with Terra Nova.

Webster's Dictionary defines "compassion" thusly: "A ready inclination to show pity, sympathy or tenderness."

Although football is not a sport noted for players and coaches who display this character trait, South San Francisco High School's head coach, Ray DeJong, stands today as a paragon of the truly compassionate man.

DeJong, whose Warrior eleven whipped winless Half Moon Bay, 35-0, under sporadically sunny skies on the Coastside yesterday, managed to keep his juggernaut unbeaten in 25 straight games, from running up the score on the Cougars by a whole variety of ingenious methods.

In a pre-planned move which had been agreed upon earlier in the week, the two clubs used a running clock for the last three quarters. In addition, DeJong used every man on his roster and never attempted to "pour it on" the Cougars, who, in all truth, did play a creditable game.

The night before the contest, DeJong had told The Times that, "I hope things don't get out of hand. It's really difficult to prepare for something of this nature. I don't relish this type of situation at all."

The former University of California guard, whose Warrior club is now 6-0 on the year and seems slated for its third North Peninsula League crown in a row, continued: "I might mention that I was in the same situation as Half Moon Bay quite a few years ago myself when I first came to South San Francisco. We played Sequoia when they had about 3,000 students and we had about 500. At least once we beat Sequoia and we hung in there with them a couple of other times too. Don't worry. Half Moon Bay will get there some day."

Half Moon Bay athletic director Chuck Short, concurred with DeJong on the future of the small Coastside school: "We have 535 students in the school now and ought to have over 600 by next school year. The spirit has never been as high as it is now. We have almost 70 boys in our football program now and the situation can only get brighter."

The Cougars, who have now lost 13 games in a row (they last beat Crestmoor, 19-2, in the first game of the 1965 season), feel that they must have help from, of all people, the politicians, if they are to become a representative grid unit in the NPL.

Short explained that a proposed building boom on the Coastside has not yet materialized because of the current "tight money" situation across the nation which has adversely affected the procuring of building loans.

"If you want to," laughed Short, "Blame the Democrats for our problems."

Fortunately for Short, new Cougar coach Jerry Murphy and the rest of the Half Moon Bay entourage, the visiting South San Franciscans did not add to their list of grievances yesterday.

Scoring 28 of their 35 points in the first quarter, the Warriors ran off only eight offensive plays in that frame and tallied four times. Touchdowns were racked up by Russ Cottrell, Fidel Realyvasquez (twice) and big Al Smith in the quarter. Smith added another score in the second period. Both of his touchdowns came on long passes from quarterback Vince Olson who also kicked all five extra points.

Prime mover in the Half Moon Bay attack was halfback Tony Lampkins who ran for 51 yards on 14 carries, caught two passes for 26 yards and was generally one of the best players on the field all day. The Cougars will take on winless Oceana next week in a game which most observers feel Half Moon Bay can win.

DeJong, who takes his team to Daly City for a duel with Westmor next weekend, used an even dozen backs in the game.

The crew-cut mentor, regarded as one of the deans of Peninsula high school coaches, commented before the tilt that "we always play serious football, but naturally, we get the boys up only for certain games."

Woe to those for whom the Warriors are "up." Past experience would indicate that compassion can only last so long.

While a happy throng of Burlingame rooters cheered outside the victors' locker room, bringing back memories of last season's undefeated, championship squad, Lightcap said, "If we are not bothered by any more injuries and (Lee) Eisan continues to play a steady game, we should be a contender from here on out."

Hugh Allen, the MPL's fifth-leading rusher and key to the Panther offense, sat out yesterday's contest with a shoulder injury, but Lightcap had more than enough eager backs to take up the slack.

Terry Brown, the Panthers' "Little Scooter," played a leading role in busting up a tie ball game by rushing for 62 yards in nine carries during the third quarter. That's when the Panthers covered 78 yards in 15 plays for their second touchdown. Eisan, who had a fine day at quarterback, slipped through the right side from five yards out for the score. Kirk Snodgrass kicked the extra point and the Panthers were off and running with 13-6 lead.

The first half ended in a 6-6 tie and was dominated by the Falcons, who out-gained their hosts in the first half, 121 total yards to 111. However, after playing a scoreless first period, the Panther offense was aided by defensive standouts Rick Athey and Rick Frank, who jarred loose and pounced on Crestmoor fumbles, and scored first on Dan Lamb's five-yard run.

The Falcons scored on a 15-yard pass from Glen Grossman to Paul Weinberger on a fourth-down play that came with but 10 seconds left in the day's contest with a shoulder injury, but Lightcap had more than enough eager backs to take up the slack.

Cap Cinches Tie For League Title

By GARRY NIVER

Capuchino High takes a well-earned rest this week in preparation for a November 10 tilt with Burlingame.

The aged requisite of modern day football was used to perfection by the Mustangs as they scored a hard-fought 7-0 victory over Aragon High School at the Cap field and cinched at least a tie for the 1966 Mid Peninsula League championship.

In what could be a preview of the two teams who will play for the overall title after the round-robin season is over, Cap reached into its bag of miracles and came up with the big scoring play at the outset of the fourth period to nab its fifth straight MPL victory.

Fleet Jimmy Kauffman, Capuchino's delicate race-horse back, got behind two Aragon defenders, hauled in a perfect spiral from quarterback Mike Costanzo and hoofed it the remaining distance for a 66-yard touchdown play.

Kauffman, who is recovering from a shoulder separation, was only in on three plays on offense but he more than made his presence felt to the Aragon hopes as he knocked the Dons further into the second division and dimmed their chances of making the play-offs. The Dons are now 1-2-1 in league play.

"We knew that they were going to be real tough and we were exactly right," a jubilant Cap mentor Gordy Young said after the victory. "I can't say enough about the efforts of both teams," he added. "They were by far the toughest team which we have met in this league," Young continued.

The red-haired coach had special praise for defensive end Mark Andrews, defensive safety Jerry Neary and the throwing of Costanzo.

Actually both quarterbacks threw well, with Costanzo hitting on 11 out of 19 for 204 yards and Bob Irish completing 18 out of 34 for 163 yards.

Twice the Mustangs had to come up with the big play to stop the Dons from scoring. Later in the third period Aragon took over on the Cap 25-yard line following a bad punt. The Dons then moved to the Cap eight yard line in three plays and it appeared as if they had established the impetus to score.

However, the Mustang defense tightened up and after a no-gainer on the ground and two incomplete passes, an Aragon receiver dropped a pass from Irish on the Cap one and the Mustangs took over.

And in the waning moments of the contest, the Dons embarked on a sustained thrust which was battling both the clock and the Cap defense.

Starting on their own 15 yard stripe, the Dons, behind the passing of Irish, moved 71 yards in nine plays, aided by an interference call which set them up on the Mustang 14 yard line.

El Camino in Running

For all its victories, South San Francisco High School has yet to take sole possession of first place in the North Peninsula League.

The persistent El Camino Colts, South S.F.'s Industrial City rival, still share the top spot with the Warriors today after scoring a 25-20 triumph at Clifford Field. Both teams have 3-0-0 NPL records.

El Camino cashed in on a pass interception and a fumble for two touchdowns, sandwiched around a nine-yard scoring screen pass from Frank Lucia to John Castellanos and a five-yard TD run by halfback Jim Teams.

Skip Nemes set up El Camino's first touchdown with an interception that he returned to the Terra Nova 38. Lucia caught Dan Tyler wide open on the 10 with a pass that went the distance for the score.

Late in the third period, Terra Nova fumbled a kickoff to set up the Colts' game-cinching touchdown. Monty Spencer recovered and Lucia passed 37 yards to Tyler on the first ensuing play for the triumph.

Terra Nova's touchdowns came on rushing plays of 64 and five yards by Dave Achziger and Jim Bonner, respectively, and on a 34-yard pass from Bonner to Clarence Smith.

An El Camino High spokesman said that the game was dedicated by the Colts to Jim Brown, a second stringer who suffered a severe neck injury during practice this week.

Mills Wins Interleague Contest With Westmoor

Vikings Win 31-18 After Bad Start

By STEVE DAVIDSON
Post Correspondent

The football Vikings of Mills High School started an inter-league game with Westmoor yesterday nearly as bad as any team could.

But just as quickly as they made their mistake, the Vikings recovered en route to a 31-18 victory that was their third in six games.

Mills' faux pas came on the opening kickoff, which Westmoor's John Striani returned a stunning 90 yards for a touchdown on one of the most electrifying plays this season.

But the Vikings came back immediately and scored on the next series of the contest, in which defense never became a strong point for either squad. Mills moved 66 yards in three plays, one of which was a 62-yard scoring scamper by Phil Cleak. Mills also took the lead in the first period when Cleak's TD was followed by an 80-yard scoring pass from Mike Barr to Doug McKay.

The Vikings put the game out of reach during the second quarter, when Barr capped a 71-yard, 12-play march with a three-yard scoring bootleg run and Bill Mitchell smashed over from the one on another drive. Striani got his second touchdown of the day on a 25-yard run off a double reverse before the half ended.

The triumph gave Mills a 3-2 record and left Westmoor with a 2-3 mark.

Ram Runners Best Terra Nova Tigers

Westmoor's Rams trounced Terra Nova's Track Tigers on a swampy 2.1 mile Golden Gate Park course. Considering the fog and dampness the Rams encountered, the Daly City harriers now feel prepared for the Oceana meet on the Sharks' ocean-front course today. The Westmoor varsity quintet scored 20 points to Terra Nova's 45. Undeclared so far this season in the NPL, senior Ram, Jerry Palmer, easily won the Cross-Country race, covering the course in 11:45. Teammate Tom Torlakson placed second without any outside competition for the spot in 11:54.

To complete the scoring seniors Neil Blackfield, Terry Nihil and Steve Deschler placed fourth, sixth and seventh, with times of 12:18, 12:39 and 12:40. Taking the third and fifth positions were Terra Nova's Lance Harter and Ed Dillsafer in 12:05 and 12:25. Westmoor's Frosh-Soph followed the footsteps of the varsity quintet by beating the Tigers 25-38.

Placing first and second were Terra Nova's Bruce Evans and Steve Richardson in 12:13 and 12:27. They were followed by a blanket of green taking third place through ninth place.

Bowling Bits

The J. L. Enterprises team in the 885 Scratch League set the high game record, not once but twice, last Friday evening as they bombed the pins for some terrific scores. The team game totals of 916-1027 and 1097 set new highs for the league which will be mighty tough to beat during the remaining weeks of the league competition. John Brodie set a torrid pace to lead his teammates as he rolled games of 277-222 and 188 for a great 687 series. Other team members who contributed to the effort were Bob Grout with 268-226-170 for 664, Steve Hargrove with 254-192-173 for 619 and Jim Leatherberry with 221 and 580.

In the Interparish league Monday evening, Hal Hinton converted the almost impossible 8-10 split as George Robi-netti topped the scoring with a 194 game and 563 series.

As the Eighth Annual Daly City Police Athletic League Benefit Singles Tournament came to an end, General Chairman Bill Greer expressed the sincere thanks of the Daly City Police Department, the Committee and the boys of the Daly City PAL program for the generous support of both bowlers and merchants in making this the best Tournament in many years.

Lucky Lager Bowler of the Week was Phil Blahm who posted a 616 series on games of 216-191 and 209.

Leading lady in the Ladies 850 Scratch Classic was Mercedes Johnson with a 607 series on games of 183-191 and a big 233 final game.

Harry Broux topped the TGIF Mixed Fives League Friday night with a 203 game and 582 series as Penny Wilson shot her first 200 game.

Leading the Telco League for the week was Bob Troxell with a 610 series on games of 173-235 and 202.

Doris Arnott rolled a big 221 game and a 557 series to take bowler of the week honors in the Tuesday Rebels League last Tuesday morning.

Pat and Gary Zink teamed to lead the Southgate Mixed Fives League Tuesday night as Pat shot a 466 series and Gary's three game total was 534. Both rolled a high game of 187.

Three games over the 200 mark gave Ron Stratton high game and series honors in the 807 Scratch League. Ron had 214-201 and 217 for a 632 total.

In the Tuesday morning French Brothers Invitational League, Betty Altamarino took high game and high series as she rolled a 201 game and 551 series. Ruth Keefe won herself a patch as she bowled a 453 series on three games of 151.

Another six hundred series was registered in the ALF-CIO League, this time by Herb Kneis as he posted games of 211-234 and 174.

Bob Orr returned to form as he led the 83 Scratch League for the week with a 223 game and 590 series.

Leading the Westmoor Handicap League for the week was Hank Juri as he shot a 603 series on games of 198-222 and 183.

Le Pacini Writes:

Yes, yes, we know the baseball season is over, but OFFICIAL statistics always take a while to be compiled, and now that they have been you're going to be subjected to our discoveries whether you like it or not, for the simple reason that it took us hours to compute the following figures.

For instance, if any of your friends have doubts—because of what happened to the Dodgers—about NL hitting superiority, just show them this chart:

	2B	3B	HR	R	BA	SB
NL	2102	412	1378	6684	.259	736
AL	2028	407	1365	6276	.246	719

We feel that needs no further explanation, except for perhaps the "SB" column, which doesn't stand for types of personalities, but stolen bases — which we included just to show you it's possible to have power and speed, too.

ANY TIME you speak of the Dodgers, it seems, you must also speak of pitching, and then hear all the theories about pitching being 70-90 per cent of baseball.

If the latter statement were completely true, then how would the experts account for the following figures comparing Dodger pitching statistics with those of the White Sox:

	ERA	SO	BB	Hits	Shutouts
Chicago	2.69	897	403	1229	22
LA	2.63	1083	356	1287	20

Pretty favorable comparison, wouldn't you say? Yet the Dodgers won the pennant and the White Sox finished fourth, 15 games off the pennant pace. There were many reasons advanced for the disappointing finish: Eddie Stanky, key injuries, too many infielders, no hitting, all of them, probable, factors. Which may indeed prove that pitching isn't all that important, that good pitching does need support, and good support.

And if you run and bunt fanatics don't think hitting is still important, check the following comparison between Dodger and White Sox hitting:

	2B	3B	HR	R	BA	SB
Chicago	193	40	87	574	.231	153
LA	201	27	108	606	.256	153

Sort of makes the Dodgers look like musclemen, doesn't it? And check the "speed" statistics, triples and stolen bases. What good did they do the White Sox?

YOU WIN baseball games by scoring more runs than have been scored against you. Thus, the team which accumulates the greatest difference between its runs scored and runs scored against should win more games than any other team, right? You may draw your own conclusions from the following "standings" which should have finished. All of which conveys to us what show how the teams SHOULD have placed had the pennant race been decided in the above manner. In parenthesis are the differences between runs scored and runs scored against, and the actual standing of the team for '66:

NATIONAL LEAGUE	AMERICAN LEAGUE
Pittsburgh (x118, third)	Baltimore (x154, first)
LA (x116, first)	Minnesota (x82, second)
Atlanta (x99, fifth)	Chicago (x57, fourth)
Philadelphia (x56, fourth)	Detroit (x21, third)
SF (x49, second)	NY (-1, tenth)
St. Louis (-6, sixth)	Cleveland (-8, fifth)
Cincinnati (-10, seventh)	Calif. (-39, sixth)
Houston (-83, eighth)	Boston (-76, ninth)
Chicago (-165, tenth)	Kas. City (-84, seventh)
NY (-174, ninth)	Washington (-102, eighth)

AT THE POST

We don't know what kind of conclusions you came up with, but we'll give you ours. The Giants made the most dramatic positive switch in positions, finishing three places head of where, by this accounting, they should have finished. All of which conveys to us what we said all year. Herman Franks did a helluva job.

OTHER BATTING statistics show that if Baltimore would have been in the NL, it would have been only third in batting, home runs and runs scored, instead of first in all three departments. And had the Giants been in the AL, instead of being ninth in hitting, second in homers and fifth in runs scored, they would have been third, first, and third, respectively.

The NL's leading hitter batted .342 against the leading AL mark of .316, and while the NL had 12,300 hitters (plus two at .299) the AL had only three .300 hitters, none in the .290's. The NL had three men at 200 or better hits (Felipe Alou, 218, Pete Rose, 205, Roberto Clemente, 202), the AL none (Tony Oliva was the closest with 191). And where the NL had five men scoring over 100 runs, the AL had only Frank Robinson, of the NL, (he tied with Aaron for the lead with 122).

In pitching, the AL had only one man (Jim Katt) who pitched better than 300 innings, while the NL—with Don Drysdale missing for the first time in four years—had three (Sandy Koufax, Juan Marichal, Jim Bunning).

And if you think the Dodgers, with all those hard throwers, struck out more batters than any other team, you're mistaken. They had 1,083, but Cleveland, of Sara McDowell fame, had 1,112. Baltimore was close behind at 1,066, followed by Cincy (1,042), Detroit (1,027), and Minnesota (1,016).

A miscellaneous stat: Philadelphia's Richie Allen, who missed a full month of play with a shoulder injury, was far and away the best clutch hitter in the majors, DIRECTLY driving in the tying or winning run 12 times.

Rams 10's, 20's Hosting Sharks

The Westmoor Ram's 10's and 20's teams expect easy victories when they host the Oceana Sharks on Thursday in their last two games of the season. But no imaginable stroke of luck could gain either of the teams a chunk of the championship title at this point, each team already having suffered three losses.

The Ram's 10's found vengeance against the Warriors in a 36-28 victory after having lost to them by one basket in their last match. The Rams forged ahead in the first quarter and held South City to the end with good ball handling and tight defense. Scoring 10 points apiece, Steve Gilmore and Dave Millar were high point-makers for the Rams and Warriors, respectively.

Vengeance was also the motive of the Ram's 20's quintet but unfortunately they will have to wait until at least next year to satisfy their passion.

We made the car go faster.

And the engine go slower.

We've added a full 3 m.p.h. to the top speed of the Volkswagen. If that doesn't sound like a lot to you, it's because it isn't. And wasn't meant to be. We put most of the power increase from 50 horsepower to 53 into the lower gears. So you could climb hills easier. And accelerate quicker.

But we didn't do all this at the expense of the engine. In fact, we made the engine turn even slower. So it would last even longer.

You'll be very happy to know this speedy new Volkswagen has dual brakes as standard equipment. If the front brakes should ever fail, the rear brakes will stop you. And vice versa.

We even put in some changes you can see, like retracting seat belts, recessed inside door handles, and back-up lights. They're standard, too.

And so are the letters V.O.L.K.S. W.A.G.E.N on the engine lid.

So you'll recognize the new bug, when it passes you.

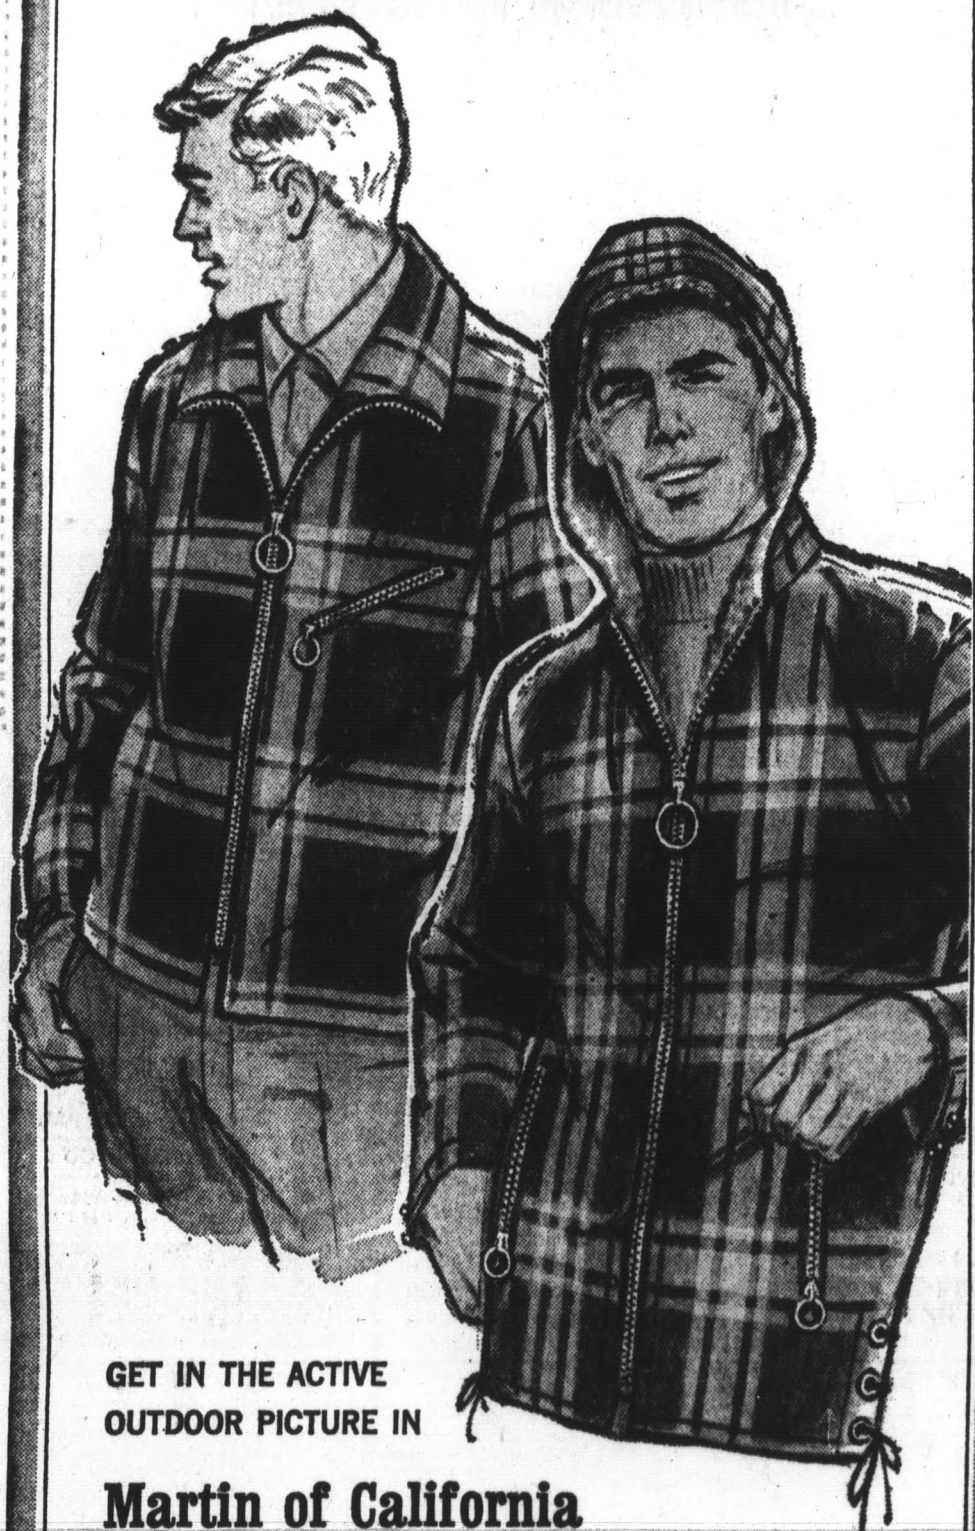

With its new, slower engine.

Sugar... 'n' Spice

By NELL NORTON

In last week's column we talked about making and baking cookies and the delicious results of this happy pastime.

Personally I think it's more pleasurable to bake cookies than any other type of baking. If you are artistic you can decorate and gussie a batch of cookies so that they are a beauty to behold as well as to be eaten. Also most recipes make a generous amount of goodies and they travel the best of all the baked goods in lunches.

WE RAN out of space last week and were not able to include this next recipe. It's such a good recipe that I don't want you good cooks to miss it, just because we ran short.

These lemon wafers are delicious and as pretty as a picture. Plus that the recipe is so easy to assemble that you can make and bake them in an hour. How's that for a recommendation?

LEMON WAFERS

1/2 cup sugar
1 cube butter
2 eggs
1 cup plus 2 Tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon lemon flavoring

Cream the butter and sugar together until light and fluffy. Add well-beaten eggs and beat until the creamed butter, sugar and eggs are well mixed and fluffy. Add the one cup plus two tablespoons of sifted flour and beat until smooth. Add lemon flavoring.

Drop batter from a teaspoon on greased cookie sheet, keeping the cookies at least 2 inches apart to allow for spreading. Bake cookies in moderate oven (350-degrees), for seven minutes or until lightly browned around the edges and done in the middle. (In my stubborn oven it took 10 minutes, so you can see that the time is flexible.)

NO MATTER what Marie Antoinette thought, we can't live on cake and cookies, so I'll tell you about a very tasty meat ball dish that I made recently which was happily received by my family. I really think you and your menage will like them too.

MEAT BALLS

1 lb. ground beef
1/4 cup fine dry bread crumbs
Two-thirds cup chopped onion
1 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
Two-thirds cup evaporated milk
2 Tbsp. butter

Mix together the ground beef, crumbs, onion, salt, pepper and evaporated milk in a medium size mixing bowl. Shape into meat balls, by using a scant quarter-cup of the mixture for each. You can make 12 meat balls. However, the size of the meat balls depends on what number you wish to make.

Melt butter in a large skillet over medium heat. Add meat balls turning occasionally to brown on all sides. Then add the rest of the ingredients to make this dish.

ALBONDIGAS—MEAT BALLS SPANISH-STYLE

1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1/4 cup chopped onion
3 1/2 cups medium tomato wedges (about 4 medium tomatoes, peeled)
1/2 cup sliced stuffed olives
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon garlic salt
Dash of hot pepper sauce (optional)
Two-thirds cup water
1 can (6-oz.) tomato paste

After meat balls are browned, push to the side of skillet. Add green pepper and onion and cook until tender. Add tomato wedges, olives, pepper, garlic salt and hot pepper sauce. Mix together water and tomato paste. Pour over meat balls and vegetables. Stir lightly to mix. Bring to boil over medium heat. Cover skillet tightly, turn heat to low and simmer 30 minutes. Makes 6 servings. Serve with 3 cups hot cooked rice.

NOTE: I used fresh tomatoes in this recipe. Right at this time they are a good buy on the market. However, if you prefer canned tomatoes you may use 1 can (1 lb. 12 oz.). Drain tomatoes, saving liquid. Use two-thirds cup liquid only in place of water.

Also I used just a light dash of the red pepper sauce. If your family likes things hot, use more.

Rummage Sale 'Prejudice' By Girl Scouts Talk Set By P-TA

Troop 8 of the Girl Scouts, under leadership of Mrs. Robert L. Eversole, will hold a rummage sale at 6247 Mission, November 5 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Funds from the sale will go into the troop treasury for their planned trip to Washington, D.C.

The first meeting of the Pacific Heights P-TA will be held on November 3 at 8 p.m. in Trojan Hall of Pacific Heights School, Pacific Heights Boulevard and Colby Way.

Guest speaker at the meeting will be Dr. Seymour Cain of Pacifica, whose topic will be "Prejudice." Dr. Cain is well-known in the Bay Area for his participation in many civic and religious organizations concerned with improving human relations. He is also the former president and education chairman for the Pacific Jewish Center and a consultant for the Encyclopedia Britannica. Dr. Cain is currently preparing a series of historical essays which will include a segment on minorities, to be published in 1968.

Dr. Cain's remarks will offer new insight to the various forms of prejudice and will be especially helpful to parents in guiding their children to understanding.

Riordan Guild To Hear Dean

John Rubia, Riordan dean of students, will be the guest speaker when the Riordan Guild meets November 8 at 8 p.m.

His topic will be "The Problems of Our Teen-agers Face," of interest to all Riordan mothers.

Terra Nova Topics

By MARIA MONTENEGRO

Nowadays Terra Novans can be spied proudly reviewing the Anchor trophy which sits securely in the TN main office for another year. Donated several years ago by a local newspaper, the Anchor symbolizes the yearly "big game" football rivalry between Terra Nova and Oceana, Pacifica's two high schools.

The TN Tiger team snatched it from the rival Sharks last year and renewed their claim with their latest "big game" victory at Oceana on October 21. Possession of the Anchor may possibly turn into a long term lease if Tigers can repeat this year's 51-0 score.

Meanwhile, preparations are under way for the November 18 Homecoming activities. Clubs and classes will announce their Homecoming queen candidates this week while the senior class plans for the Homecoming dance to be held after the Homecoming parade and game against Jefferson.

Preparations are under way for the 24-page Tiger Tales magazine scheduled for release at the end of the quarter. The Tiger Tales' staff has even been devoting lunch hours in their efforts to put out a good edition. Although the quarterly magazine is a switch from last year's regular tri-weekly newspaper, it involves more in-depth news and feature coverage.

age and more colorful make-up.

Sounds X 10 — The Pacifica Teen Club's band battle held at TN last Friday. The dance featured ten local teen-age bands.

The TN GAA members are manning their tape measures for tomorrow night's annual "Waist Whittlin' Wing Ding." It is their father-daughter athletic night for which admission is as many cents as the combined number of waist inches of each dad and daughter.

TN's on-the-go band and chorus instructor John Bentley are organizing a girls' glee club after school.

Women Tell 'La Fete de Noel' Plans

Plans have been completed by Mrs. John Canepa and her committee "to eliminate all the discomforts of Christmas shopping" with "La Fete de Noel," the Festival of Christmas.

The Yule bazaar, to be given by Mater Dolorosa Women's Club on November 12, will be free from the rush and clamor commonly endured by holiday shoppers, a club spokesman pointed out.

A free baby sitting service will be offered by the Teen Club.

"La Fete de Noel" will be held in the Mater Dolorosa Church Hall at Miller and Willow Avenues from noon until 6 p.m. Colorful booths will enhance the hall and aid shoppers with their attractive and interesting wares.

Bazaar By Church On Weekend

Follow the tradition of past years, the Women's Association of the First United Presbyterian Church of Pacifica, "The Little Brown Church," will hold its fifteenth annual bazaar Friday and Saturday.

As in the past, many of the women who have contributed their time and effort have been busy once again throughout this past year, sewing and making old and new ideas for Christmas gift suggestions.

The old standby of embroidered pillow slips, aprons, potholders, grab bags and post office booths will be around.

The Grace and Vallemar Circles have been working on new ideas for gifts and will continue to have the booth that was formerly handled by Kitty Lockhart and her daughter, Grace McCarthy.

Booths will be open Friday, 3 p.m. to 8 p.m., with a dime-a-dip dinner from 5:30 to 7:30. Saturday, booths will be open from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and snax during the afternoon.

Greenwood And Morgan Speak To P-TA Chiefs

The Jefferson Council of P-TA's met recently at the new John F. Kennedy School multi-use room, under the leadership of Mrs. Jack Mitchell, council president.

Frank Greenwood, superintendent of the Jefferson Elementary School district, and Ed Morgan, superintendent of the Jefferson High School district, spoke on new educational programs in the districts.

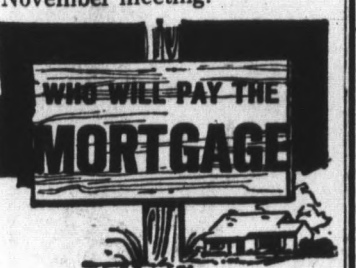

A Youth for Service proposal was endorsed by the Jefferson Council of P-TA's at this time. Endorsement also was given to a juvenile protection town hall meeting for the Daly City-Colma area in January.

December Event Being Planned

Riordan Guild will sponsor its Mothers and Sons Communion Breakfast, December 4.

Mass will be held at 8:30 in the school auditorium, with breakfast afterward in Chaminade Hall.

The mothers of the junior division will be hostesses for the November meeting.

Westlake Missionary Society Holds Its Tea

The Women's Missionary Society of the Westlake Community Baptist Church held its annual tea at the new home of Barbara Taylor.

The table was set with purple and white appointments and Carol Lucas poured at the tea table.

Treat Grass Well in Fall for Beauty

By IVA NEWMAN

Peninsula homes can enjoy beautiful green lawns every week in the year. They do not have to look forward to months of shoveling snow or slippery ice but they do have to carry on with their gardening chores while gardeners in colder areas take on more unpleasant duties.

Indian summer, that time of beautiful warm but not too hot weather in late October, is not a time to take off fishing and hunting or just lazing around unless your garden chores are well in hand. This is about as late as you can safely wait to see a new lawn, reseed an established lawn or make a summer-green bermuda turf green during the winter.

Bermuda grass lawns can be quite acceptable during the warm part of the year but as soon as the weather begins to cool off this grass begins to brown off and in just a short time it is as brown and dry looking as the hills. But, unlike the hills it doesn't green up when the rains come, it has to wait for the warm weather to return.

Just as soon as you notice the permanent lawn grasses "slowing down" their top growth for winter, it is time to plant winter grass in order to keep the areas, sown to bermuda, green. In professional circles new interest is centering on the so-called "fine-textured" grasses for winter seeding. These are the fine fescues, the Kentucky bluegrasses and seeded bent grasses such as Highland. Familiar varieties of fine fescue are Chewings, Illahee and Penn; there are many choices of Kentucky bluegrass, almost any of which will perform well in winter. Park is noted for its rapid sprouting.

Almost all the important golf courses now seed greens to fine-textured grasses. This should work for lawns, too. These elegant lawn grasses are a bit slower to start than rye grass, but should be less troublesome later, need less mowing, and do not crowd out the permanent turf so much in the spring.

New Winter Grasses

Basically these fine lawn species, newly "discovered" as winter grasses, require what any seed requires to sprout and grow well—moisture, space and soil to root in. Watering brings about sprouting, but the bermuda grass should be mowed low and perhaps be thinned in order to provide space and access to soil. So, mow your bermuda grass as low as you can, certainly less than an inch high. A time or two across the lawn with a thinning machine or "vertical mower" makes an especially receptive seedbed. Fine-textured seeds are small, and the idea is to work them down into the sod until they reach soil. About four pounds of an all-fine-textured winter grass mixture should adequately seed a thousand square feet of lawn if the seedbed is prepared. If the weather turns cold, germination of the winter grass may be slow, so have patience. Golf course people usually topdress (i.e. scatter soil lightly on top of the seed), to provide added assurance of sprouting.

Some of our readers tell me that they use rye grass because it is cheap. The usual rye grass casually sown for winter lawns is inexpensive by the pound, but you get relatively few seeds in a pound. By contrast, there are over two million seeds of Kentucky bluegrass in a pound, nearly ten times as much as rye grass.

Then, you'll probably find an inexpensive bentgrass, such as Highland, in a fine-textured winter seeding mixture, too, with over seven million seeds to the pound. And don't forget about the fine fescues which we mentioned above, these have about two-thirds million seeds to the pound. You will find the fescues are the quickest of the fine-textured grasses to make a showing.

A blend of all three of the above types will average well over two million seeds to the pound. That comes to 25,000 or so seeds for a penny. If the mix were to cost $1 a pound. Well planted and well watered 25,000 seeds should provide enough winter grass for a number of square feet of lawn, or a lot of grass for one cent.

We have been asked if a regular turf (not bermuda grass) should be overseeded in the fall. It most certainly should. Nature abhors bare ground and is always trying to cover it with some kind of growth. Weeds are therefore more likely to invade a thin lawn. But the oft made statement that weeds do not invade a thick, vigorous lawn is not necessarily true. They are less apt to invade a thick, healthy stand of turf but a lot depends upon circumstances.

Correct fertilizing practice certainly helps any lawn to resist new weed entrants. Late fall and winter fertilizing stimulates root growth without encourage top growth. Dr. Robert Schery, director of the Lawn Institute, Marysville, Ohio, says that "most lawns, on most soils, in most climates, enough fertilizer to supply two pounds of elemental nitrogen to each 1,000 square feet is not overdoing autumn feeding."

Read Label

The fertilizer bag tells the percentage of nitrogen in the product. Most lawn fertilizers used these days are "high-powered," they will have 20 to 35 per cent nitrogen. Typical analyses are 24-9-5, 24-6-6, and 30-5-8 (the first number is nitrogen, the second phosphorus and the third the potassium percentage). With a fertilizer that is 25 per cent nitrogen, four pounds of the product is needed per 1,000 square feet of lawn in order to supply one pound of elemental nitrogen. Most bags provide approximately this rate in indicating bag coverage. One application given now and a second one in four to six weeks will take care of your lawn fertilizer needs until spring growth starts.

For thin lawns that are weedy, fertilizer manufacturers today supply convenience products that combine a weed killer with the plant food. Early autumn is a good time for a "weed-and-feed" combination, but it is not an appropriate time for the use of crab grass killers or preventers. Crab grass is a spring and summer problem. Typical weed-and-feed products are a 20-5-5 fertilizer combined with a 2-4-D and "Silvex" or "Dicamba." Applied accurately, with a good spreader, as directed on the bag, these should cause broadleaf weeds such as dandelions and plantains, to wither away gradually, while the grass is urged to fill in where the weeds have been. Weed killing is harder when weather turns cold, so it is suggested that weed-and-feed products be used early and straight fertilizers later in the autumn.

Fertilizer is the magic that makes a lawn thick, spreading growth, that of itself helps to control weeds. Turf scientists have found that fall is the time of year when you can fertilize, even over-fertilize, with impunity; it won't burn the grass, nor will so much growth be forced as to make mowing unbearable.

FOR A BEAUTIFUL lawn next year treat it well in the fall. Two pounds of elemental nitrogen to each 1,000 square feet is not too much for a fall feeding. Use a spreader to get an even coverage and don't forget to water it down to the roots.

Two Daly City co-eds are among the contestants for the San Francisco State College Homecoming Queen's crown in the annual collegiate contest at the Lake Merced campus which takes place Friday through Sunday, November 4-6.

Gloria Morrissey, 21, living at 48 Crestline Avenue, and Michele Robertson, 19, whose home is 398 Ardendale, compete with nine others for the title.

The announcement of the winner will be made at the annual Homecoming Ball to be held at the Fairmont Hotel on Saturday night.

Gloria, the daughter of John Morrissey of Daly City, is in her junior year and majors in drama. She was graduated at the Westmoor High School. She is sponsored by the Delta Phi Gamma social fraternity.

She is the Saturday receptionist-secretary of the Times Westlake office.

Michele, the daughter of Bernardine Robertson of Daly City, is a sophomore majoring in English and Philosophy. She attended the St. Peter's High School. Her sponsor is Sigma Pi Sigma fraternity.

A general election is being held on campus Thursday and Friday. The contestants will appear at half-time at the football game at the Lowell high school field, S.F. State vs. Sacramento State College.

The winner will reign over all subsequent Homecoming events. Included will be an "Edwardian Ball" Sunday.

Pacificans To Present Cook Book

The Pacifica Auxiliary to the Family Service Agency of San Mateo County will present its cook book Family Funfare on Saturday at the Family Service Holiday Boutique, Woodlake Spa, San Mateo.

The Pacifica Auxiliary will staff a booth from 10 to 5.

Family Funfare is a compilation of recipes from the files of Pacifica's outstanding cooks—there is food to feed the family, entertain the boss, and a section for the younger set to prepare.

The illustrations are the work of Connie Hegedus, a member of the Pacifica Art Guild, who is very active in Bay Area art activities.

The Holiday Boutique is sponsored by the San Mateo Family Service Auxiliary, and features exclusive handmade gifts and decorations for all those holidays—not just Christmas. Proceeds from the all day bazaar and cook book sales will go to support the Family Service Agency of San Mateo County. The agency has one office at 1870 El Camino Real in Burlingame, and another in the Cabrillo Medical Building in Pacifica.

'LSD Trip' Blamed For Home Entry

Two 19-year-old San Bruno residents who told police they were on an LSD "trip" and did not know why they broke into the home of a South San Anselmo Avenue resident Saturday night were turned over to the San Mateo County Sheriff's Department.

Franklin Dee Bogosin, 60 South San Anselmo Avenue, San Bruno, returned home from an outing about 11 p.m. Saturday and found his house ransacked. Bogosin heard someone in a back room of the house and ran to a service station down the street and notified police.

Before police arrived, he saw two "long-haired young men" climb out a back window and run to an automobile parked across the street.

The men could not find their car keys, and were still sitting in the parked vehicle when Officer Ronald York arrived.

Police said the youths, Stephen Patrick Feeley and Grant Miles McBlair, both of 333 Hazel Avenue, San Bruno, appeared incoherent and "apparently under the influence of powerful drugs."

PROGRAM SET
The cultural program "Taste and Smell," in the form of a 6:30 curry dinner, will be presented by Mrs. Frantz Cox at the next regular meeting of Xi Lambda Sigma chapter of Beta Sigma Phi to be held at her home, 208 Seaside Drive in Pacifica, on Monday.

Olives Shine For Fall Festivities

Mellow and nutty, olives flavor and enhance these recipes designed for fall festivities.

The upside-down pie — actually a turned-out tamale pie — is dressed up.

A savory ripe olive and meat filling is sandwiched between a layer of whole kernel corn and a tender cornbread topping.

Another hearty casserole to give the children nourishment is made with hot dogs and noodles.

For grownup get-togethers all year-round, versatile California ripe olives show up in dozens of ways. Special are these whimsical hors d'oeuvres.

Olive Pie
 A layered orange and black pie for fall.

- 1 pound ground lean beef
- ¼ cup cooking oil
- 1 (10½-ounce) can condensed tomato soup
- ½ cup water
- 3 tablespoons instant minced onion
- ½ teaspoon garlic powder
- ¼ teaspoon thyme
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1 (No. 1) tall can California pitted ripe olives
- 1 (17-ounce) can whole-kernel corn
- 1 beaten egg
- 1 cup milk
- 2 tablespoons melted shortening
- 1 cup grated American cheese
- 1 cup sifted flour
- 1 cup yellow cornmeal
- 3 teaspoons baking powder

Brown beef in hot oil. Stir in undiluted tomato soup, water, instant minced onion and seasonings. Simmer ten minutes. Arrange few olive halves in bottom of heavy 9-inch skillet. Mix remaining olives with mixture. Spoon drained corn carefully over olive pattern. Pour meat mixture over corn. Mix egg with milk, shortening and cheese. Stir into flour resifted with cornmeal and baking powder. Spoon over meat mixture. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 25 to 30 minutes. Run spatula around edge of skillet and invert on platter. Makes eight servings.

HOT DOG CASSEROLE
 In keeping with the fall color scheme, canned ripe olives from California and golden cheese combine with noodles and hot dogs in a special casserole.

- 2 cups noodles
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1½ cups tomato juice
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- 1 cup canned California ripe olives
- ½ cup grated American cheese
- 4 thinly sliced hot dogs

Cook noodles according to package directions; drain and rinse with cold water. Blend flour with melted butter. Add tomato juice, salt and pepper. Cook, stirring until thickened. Remove from heat. Stir in olives cut into wedges, cheese and hot dogs. Pour over noodles. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 15 to 20 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

OLIVE TEASERS

Wonderful appetizers for parties anytime. A quickie to make with pastry mix, ripe olives and cheese. Busy hostesses prepare them ahead of time and pop them into the freezer rather than the oven. At party time it's out of the freezer into a hot oven for a quick bake.

- 1 cup canned California pitted ripe olives
- 1 cup grated Cheddar cheese
- 1 teaspoon chili powder
- 2 sticks pastry mix

Combine coarsely chopped olives with cheese and chili powder. Prepare pastry according to package directions. Roll out thinly. Cut into 2-inch squares or rounds. Place rounded teaspoon of ripe olive mixture on center of each square and on half of rounds. Moisten edges. Fold squares to make triangles. Top rounds with second pastry round. Seal edges. Cut slots. Place on baking sheet. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) about 10 minutes or until lightly browned. Makes about 2½ to 3 dozen appetizers.

An Indian Pudding With Mild Spicing

A mildly spiced version of a famous pudding.

Boiled Beef with Vegetables and Horseradish Sauce
 Bread Tray Salad Bowl
 Indian Pudding Beverage

INDIAN PUDDING

- 1-3 cup yellow cornmeal
 - ½ teaspoon salt
 - ¼ teaspoon each cinnamon and ginger
 - 1 quart milk
 - 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
 - ½ cup dark molasses
 - ¼ teaspoon baking soda
- In double-boiler top, stir together the cornmeal, salt and spices with ½ cup of the cold milk. Scald 1½ cups of the milk; stir into cornmeal mixture; thoroughly stir in the butter, then the molasses and baking soda. Stir in remaining 2 cups cold milk. Cook over hot water, stirring occasionally, until slightly thickened—about 20 minutes. Turn into greased 1½-quart oven-glass round casserole (7½ by 2½ inches). Bake, uncovered, in a very slow (275 degrees) oven for 2¼ hours. Allow to stand until slightly warm before spooning into; serve slightly warm topped with vanilla ice cream. Makes 6 servings. (Pudding will have whey-like texture.)

Here's Idea For Holiday Gibley Gravy

"That Day" is drawing near, when all the country feasts. So prepare for a delightful gibley gravy.

Fruit Cup with Lemon Sherbet
 Roast Turkey with Stuffing
 Gibley Gravy Potatoes
 Green Peas with Mushrooms
 Salad Bowl Bread Tray
 Frosted Layercake Beverage
GIBLEY GRAVY
 Drippings in turkey roasting pan

- ½ cup hot water
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 2½ cups turkey stock
- Salt and pepper to taste
- ¼ teaspoon garlic powder
- Cooked turkey giblets, cut up

Add the hot water to the drippings in the turkey roasting pan after the fat has been poured off; stir over very low heat with a wooden spoon to scrape up drippings. Turn into a saucepan, using a rubber spatula to get everything out of the roasting pan. Mix ½ cup of cold turkey stock with the flour until smooth and add to saucepan; stir in the remaining stock and the seasonings. Cook and stir constantly over moderately low heat until thickened. Add more stock if gravy is thicker than you like; add giblets; correct seasoning; reheat.

Time to Get Back to Solids

Mom, now that summer is over it's time to get back to the regularity of three square meals. And what could be more popular than frozen prepared fried chicken dinners? Serve piping hot, with your own special touch: Fold aluminum foil back to uncover potatoes in frozen prepared fried chicken dinners. Sprinkle with curry powder. Reheat: heat according to label directions.

Whipped Raisin Butter brightens hot waffles for a festive cold weather brunch. Beat ¼ cup softened butter and two tablespoons apricot jam until fluffy. Mix in ¼ cup finely chopped California seedless raisins, two teaspoons lemon juice and ¼ teaspoon grated lemon rind. Makes ½ cup.

Westside Baptists To See Film

"Nefa's New Frontier," a newly released color-sound filmstrip produced by the Baptist General Conference depicting the missionary work in the land of Assam, will be shown at the 7 p.m. Family Fellowship Gospel Hour of the Westside Baptist Church, 2322 Crestmoor Drive, Sunday. The script and pictures were produced by William Hagstrom, a veteran missionary to Assam, who returned last year for his fourth term. The Baptist General Conference has been in Assam since 1946. NEFA stands for the North East Frontier Agency of Assam. The conference missionaries have had a fruitful ministry in and among these people in the recent years. Thirty missionary appointees and resident missionaries are working in the field of Assam under the Baptist General Conference Foreign Board. Six new members will be welcomed into the fellowship of the Westside Baptist Church at the 11 a.m. morning worship hour, Sunday.

They are: Mr. and Mrs. Alfonso Giarrata, Mr. Robert Woodard, Mr. Robert Besser, Miss Donna Wallin, and Miss Juanita Fogelstrom.

Pastor A. David Donnelly, on behalf of the church, will present certificates of membership.

The ordinance of the Lord's Supper will be observed.

Evangelist Plans Grace Chapel Service in D.C.

Evangelist Caroline Lindblad of Santa Cruz will be the guest speaker in a series of services beginning Wednesday, November 2 at 7:30 p.m., nightly except Saturday, at the Grace Chapel Community Church, 100 Los Banos Avenue, Daly City. Miss Lindblad has recently visited a number of churches in the Bay Area. Special music will be furnished by Mrs. Evelyn Thorness. Students from Simpson Bible College, San Francisco, will participate. The pastor of the church is the Rev. Birger M. Thorness.

Daly City Church Moves Services

Commencing Sunday and continuing each succeeding Sunday, the congregation of the Second Baptist Church of Daly City will begin holding its Sunday Church School and worship services in the "Coral Room" at the War Memorial Community Center, 6655 Mission Street. (Services were formerly held at 173 San Diego Avenue.) Rev. Howard A. Bryant, pastor of Second Baptist announces that there will be classes for children and adults. Classes began at 9:30 a.m. and worship at 10:45 a.m.

Cub Leader Training

Marvin Schneider, chairman of Portola District Boy Scouts, has announced that a Cub Leader Training Course will commence at 8 p.m., November 7, at Vallemar School in Pacifica. Instructors will be Bernie Lake and Chuck Krake. Purpose of the Cub Leader Training Course is to aid the Cub leaders in performing their volunteer occupations. Some of the points that will be covered are: Committee meetings, Den Mother training, use of the Cub Leader's Quarterly, and successful pack meetings. Schneider said that both Lake and Krake are veteran Scouters and "will have many hints which Cub Leaders will find helpful." The Cub Leader Training Course is directed toward Cubmasters, den mothers, committeemen, and interested parents.

Pacifica's Public Emergency

Pacifica councilmen declared a "public emergency" last Wednesday night and authorized City Engineer Ken Thompson to complete improvements of a small subdivision begun by a developer who has become "insolvent." The council adopted a resolution waiving bidding requirements and instructed the city engineer to immediately implement improvements on Dardelle Street, where Pacifica developer W. F. Petersen began construction of a five-dwelling subdivision several months ago. A loan company has foreclosed on Petersen's interest in the project, and the unpaved street is "in immediate danger of further deterioration during the winter rains," Councilmen said. None of the five dwellings is completed or occupied.

Under an agreement with the city, Petersen was to have paved the street, and installed utility and drainage facilities. The development is located on a 20-degree grade. The council also instructed City Attorney Conrad Reisch to begin legal proceedings against Petersen and his bonding company. There was a $7,000 surety bond on the project.

Baptists Hold Week Revival

The First Baptist Church of Pacifica, 610 Edgemar Avenue, began a one-week Revival at 7:30 p.m., "What Do You Have." Other sermon topics will be announced from night to night. Special music during the revival will be presented by the church choir with both organ and piano accompanying the congregational singing. Soloists include Clinton Smith, Shirley Cowan, Frances DeLaVega, Mary Grantham, and Dorothy Wolff. The Rev. J. Clifford Arnold of Amarillo, Tex., will conduct the revival. He is the brother of the Rev. Charles F. Arnold, pastor of the Pacifica Church. Rev. Arnold has announced for his sermons October 30, at 11 a.m., "A Lot of Foolishness," at 7:30 p.m., "What Do You Have."

Fire Damages Bruno Kitchen

Fire caused an estimated $1,500 damage to the kitchen of a home at 1141 Glenview Drive, San Bruno, at supertime yesterday.

Firemen said the tenants of the house, the George H. Brimhalls, were to have French fries as part of their dinner, but that hot grease splattered onto a burner of the electric stove and ignited.

Cabinets and other built-in units were damaged. The living room suffered smoke damage.

New Center Opens

Last Wednesday, October 26 marked the opening of the beautiful new Fairmont Shopping Center, located at Gateway and Hickey Boulevard at Skyline in Pacifica.

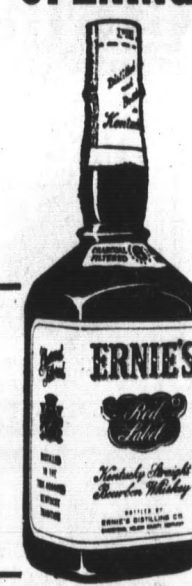

The new center includes a Safeway Drug Center, a Safeway Food Center and ten satellite stores.

Sleepy Man Falls From Second Floor

Jesus M. Madrid woke with a start from a dream Thursday night.

The 46 year-old South San Franciscan dreamt his phone was ringing and got up to answer it.

Instead of going into the living room, however, Jesus walked through the open bedroom window.

He snapped awake as he hit the driveway two stories below.

Madrid was treated for minor injuries at Peninsula Hospital and released.

Holy Angels Women To View Film

The monthly meeting to Holy Angels Women's Guild will be held Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Parish Hall.

Mrs. James McLoughlin, first vice president and program chairman, announces that the highlight of the evening will be the showing of the outstanding film Parable. This film has generated a great deal of interest throughout the country since its original showing at the New York World's Fair.

All ladies are urged not only to see the film but also to invite their friends to witness Parable and share this experience with them.

Leadership Training For Teen-agers

A leadership training course for boys and girls in senior high school will be offered by the Brotherhood Way Jewish Community Center on Thursday evenings beginning November 3. The six Thursday sessions will run from 7:30 to 9 p.m. and will be conducted by Ed Myers of the center's professional staff.

A detailed brochure is available at Brotherhood Way Center, 655 Brotherhood way, San Francisco.

Bruno Woman Hit By Truck

An elderly San Bruno woman was struck by a pickup truck at the intersection of Jenevein Avenue and El Camino Real Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Margaret M. Clark, 69, of 200 Linden Avenue, was admitted to Peninsula Hospital for treatment of possible head and chest injuries received in the accident about 1 p.m. A hospital spokesman said today she is in satisfactory condition, and apparently was only "shaken up."

Police said the truck, driven by Walter J. Norgard, 256 Cypress Avenue, San Bruno, was turning left off Jenevein onto El Camino Real when Mrs. Clark was struck down. The vehicle was moving about 10 miles per hour.

Officers said it has not been determined whether or not Mrs. Clark was in the crosswalk when the accident occurred.

Green Light For Daly City School Site

A green light was given to Jefferson Elementary School District Supt. Frank Greenwood to begin acquisition proceedings on another school site in Daly City.

The move came during a special meeting of the Board of Trustees.

Two sites are presently under consideration, Greenwood told the board.

He would not disclose their locations, other than to say both were west of Skyline Boulevard in Daly City.

The board also approved Greenwood's request for $1,000 to conduct a series of tests to determine the area's susceptibility to earthquakes.

The San Andreas Fault runs along the ocean side of Skyline Boulevard.

A University of California seismologist team will conduct the studies, Greenwood said.

Trustee O. Wayne Douglas said he was "apprehensive" about both sites and asked that a thorough study be made before either site is purchased by the district.

In other action last night, the board adopted a resolution accepting Title Two funds from the government to be used for the purchase of books.

The board was told some 3,500 books would be bought at a cost of more than $13,000, using the funds.

All of the books will go to stock primary school libraries in the district.

Peace Corps Volunteer Will Speak

Daly City Peace Corps Volunteer Gerald McMahon will speak Wednesday to the Westmoor High School student body on the Westmoor High Overseas program.

McMahon, of 675 Monterey Boulevard, is a Peace Corps Volunteer in Columbia and associate representative in Honduras. He will tell of his experiences in the School Partnership Program in Honduras.

For the past year, Westmoor has been accepting donations from students and school organizations to complete their program to build a school overseas in the name of Westmoor High. They are only $206 short of their $1,000 goal.

In a letter from the School Partnership Program to Student Body President Rich Esposto, Joseph Farrell said, "That you have already nearly completed your program of fund-raising spurred on only by a pamphlet is a real tribute to your student body initiative."

Seventy-five schools have been built or are under construction in other countries from donations from American schools and organizations.

Fire Damages D.C. House

Fire Tuesday caused an estimated $8,000 damage to a Daly City structure and its contents.

Grace Bacagalupi, 60, owner of the home and her sister, Margaret Pettigrew, 56, were awakened at 3:57 a.m. by sounds in the basement of their home at 51 Wilson.

The house was filling up with smoke.

Investigating, they found their older model car in the garage on fire, and the crackling blaze spreading to ceiling timbers after gutting interior of the auto.

Smoke damage throughout the house resulted, firemen said, although flames were confined to the front portion of the basement.

No one was hurt, but one of the women's hair was singed, a fire department spokesman said.

Installation Of Officers

New officers of Marian Council 3773, Knights of Columbus, were installed recently in the first open installation ceremony ever held by the organization. Leroy Reff, state deputy, and John Mylod, six-point chairman, officiated at the installations.

Council Asks Hupf to Seek Bench Post

Daly City attorney Paul Hupf was unanimously urged by the city council last Monday to seek appointment to the municipal court bench created by the legislature earlier this year.

A resolution read during the meeting said Hupf, a Republican, "has expressed interest in the appointment and in the judgement of the city council is more than qualified for such a position."

The all-Democratic council said Hupf had served the city "with distinction" for some ten years and had participated in a variety of local activities.

Two other prominent city government officials—Daly City Mayor Albert Polonsky and South San Francisco City Attorney John Noonan—have been considered prime contenders for the judgeship.

Mayor Polonsky was the instigator of the resolution backing Hupf.

Sign Crackdown Ordered By Brisbane Councilmen

The Brisbane City Council adopted an ordinance last week which will prevent the erection of any new signs within the city during the next three months.

The emergency ordinance was adopted in order to allow the planning commission time to complete a study and hold public hearings on implementing a permanent change in the city's zoning laws.

A controversy arose over a sign application by Foster and Kleiser advertising company for a billboard sign in Brisbane about one month ago. The application was denied.

Councilmen stated at the meeting this week that the present zoning laws in Brisbane, based upon the San Mateo County statutes, are "inadequate and not specific enough for our current needs."

Another zoning ordinance, dealing with "minor subdivisions," was also adopted at the meeting. This ordinance provides that building sites can be approved along with over-all plans for minor subdivisions, thus eliminating the need for approving the individual sites as houses are constructed.

In other business at the meeting, Mayor Ed Schwenderlauf instructed the city manager to investigate the financial requirements and other qualifications required for operating a "tank farm."

The Southern Pacific company has outlined plans for a tank complex in the city, and a 10-inch pipeline across the bay to supply the storage tanks.

A citizens' organization, Brisbane Citizens for Civic Progress, has requested that the city deny an extension of the firm's application to dredge in the South Bay area for the pipeline.

The B.C.C.P. has also requested that the company be required to "come before the city of Brisbane and county of San Mateo with total disclosure of its plans for the fuel dump site to supply."

The eight-and-a-half acre site to be used for the tank farm is located in the path of the proposed Guadalupe Canyon Parkway, the B.C.C.P. contends, and the organization "would also like to know what type of development will be situated adjacent to the tank farm."

A planned development of 180 houses has been approved in an area near the tank farm site.

Second Child Killed By Car On D.C. Street

A six-year-old girl was struck and killed by an automobile in Daly City last Thursday afternoon as another child, a passenger in the car, screamed in horror.

Laurie Lee Fernandez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fernandez, Daly City, died at Mary's Help Hospital of head injuries received in the accident at 3:30 p.m.

Witnesses said the child, who reportedly had left her home at 137 Thiers Street without her mother's knowledge, walked from between two parked cars into the 500 block of Hillside Boulevard and into the path of a car driven by Mrs. Athena Passaglia, Daly City.

Mrs. Passaglia did not see the child before the vehicle struck her, but her 11-year-old daughter, Pamela, screamed an instant before the impact, and told her mother she had "hit a little girl."

Laurie Lee, a student at Vista Grande School, was the second child killed on Daly City streets this month. Six-year-old Linda Reid was struck and killed by a car on Junipero Serra on October 17.

Robert Reid, Linda's father, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moriarty, parents of another child killed on Junipero Serra in 1964, urged that the city install an overpass and take preventative action to protect children at dangerous intersections at a council meeting Monday night.

New Library Nearly Ready

South San Francisco has a sparkling new $700,000 library that will soon open its doors to the public.

Although access has been limited only to workers—and they cautiously tip-toe around the carpeted floors from one paneled room to another—the wounds of time are already opening.

Monday night, the city council was asked to approve a $15.18 bill from the Roy Anderson Paint Company "for painting material."

"You mean to say we just paid $700,000 for a new library and we have to buy a gallon of paint for it already? I wonder just how long that library will last," one councilman remarked.

Pilot Library Project in D.C.

The George Washington Elementary School in Daly City has been selected to receive a federal grant to develop a pilot school library program, Superintendent of Schools Frank Greenwood has announced.

The project will develop a full-scale elementary school library, adding over 3500 books, 1700 paperbacks, 1000 educational filmstrips, 400 art reproductions and 175 phonograph recordings to the school's library, Greenwood said.

The materials will be provided by a $16,000 grant under the Federal Elementary and Secondary Education Act. The Jefferson Elementary School District has added a full-time accredited librarian to the faculty, doubled the book shelving in the library, and placed filmstrip projectors and screens in every classroom in the school.

Jefferson District Director of Instructional Materials, Robert E. Muller, said the project will be a pilot program for future development of the district's 16 elementary school libraries.

"School libraries are more than books," Muller said. "They must provide children with many different types of learning and enrichment materials. Books are a prime source of information and inspiration, but filmstrips, recordings and art prints add a new dimension to the learning process and to a child's achievement in school. "A unique part of the library project," Muller added, "will be that the children will have complete access to all of these new materials, and may check out filmstrips, art prints, recordings and projectors, as well as books, for home study."

Dr. Bernard Gerdes, principal of the school, said he and his teachers expect the new library facilities to increase student interest and motivation, and add significantly to classroom learning experiences.

The project library will be formally opened at 8 p.m. on November 2, with an open house arranged by the George Washington P.T.A.

Coast Road Delay Seen

City officials from Daly City, San Bruno, and Pacifica agreed to delay taking the North Peninsula's route 186 project to the state highway commission until after the November elections at a meeting last Wednesday in San Bruno.

The committee will seek to speed construction of the route 186 connecting road from San Bruno to Pacifica, and also the widening of El Camino Real and completion of the Cabrillo Highway-Freeway connecting road.

Route 186 has been in the "planning stage" for about five years, and progress on the project has been stalled by a lack of available funds, officials said.

Attending the Wednesday meeting, held at Uncle John's Pancake House, were Chamber of Commerce Manager Bernie Lake, Chamber committeemen Andy Turner, Mayor Harland Minshew, and Vice Mayor Nick Gust from Pacifica; San Bruno Mayor Karney Barberian, and Mayor Albert Polonsky of Daly City.

Mrs. Helen Seby will speak on the role of the library in modern elementary school education. The public is invited.

A sailor on leave from the U.S.S. Enterprise was robbed at knifepoint at 3:45 a.m. last week by three women and a man within sight of the sprawling Hunters Point naval base early this morning before being thrown from a car barefoot on a darkened South San Francisco Street.

Petty Officer Second Class Donald C. McKown, assigned to the huge aircraft Enterprise now docked in San Francisco, was not injured.

McKown told police he met the group at an Eddy Street bar in San Francisco and they offered to "show me around and give me a good time."

Instead, they drove the victim to a secluded spot near the naval base and robbed him of his wallet containing $8 in currency and a $50 allotment check.

"On the way to the base, I sat next to the man in the rear seat," McKown told police. "All of a sudden he pulled out a switchblade knife and pressed it against my throat."

"The man demanded my money and told me he wasn't fooling," McKown said.

After being pushed from the car barefoot, McKown made his way to a nearby office building and asked a custodian to call the police.

BRIGHT LIGHTS

San Francisco New Tivoli A New Dine Out Venture

WHEN DINING AT THE NEW TIVOLI, in San Francisco, you're in for a unique experience. Brightly checkered tablecloths, candlelight, and secluded booths, as well as attentive waiters, add to the charm and warmth with which the rustic exterior glows. The crisp salads are mouth watering, and golden skinned chicken with a touch of lemon provides a gratifying reward for a hungry palate. Owner Nick Finocchio's hospitable manner lends additional charm, as he welcomes customers to his restaurant. Tip to all groups planning gatherings during the coming holiday season: The New Tivoli has five banquet rooms to accommodate just such occasions. . . . The nude painting of Stella, which comes to life every hour and winks, is drawing big crowds to the cocktail lounge at Goman's Gay 90's.

N. Finocchio

ANDRE GUBBELS, general manager of San Jose's elegant Plateau 7 rooftop restaurant, has received so many letters from his customers asking him why he doesn't feature Maureen Searless, the Golden Harpist, at Plateau 7 anymore, that he has decided to bring Maureen back not only on Saturday nights, but on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday nights, too. Watch Bright Lights for her opening date. . . . Be sure and order Tostada Compuesta at Pancho's Redwood City, on your next Mexican food splurge. Served with or without a touch of hot sauce, it's delicious! . . . Fotis Gonis, handsome bouzouki player at the Balkan Village, Los Altos, looks like a Greek version of Italian film star, Vittorio Gassman. Is it any wonder the pretty ladies are especially interested in bouzouki music? . . . You'll enjoy the de luxe luncheons and dinners served at Doran's Supper Club in Belmont. After dinner, slip into the cozy cocktail lounge and lend an ear to Larry Wickersham's Hammond organ music.

Andre Gubbels

COME TO JOE LEWIS' Wayne Manor, Home of Batman and Robin, and the Peninsula's craziest night club in Sunnyvale, and see how many musicians in a music machine. Everybody's "Talk Talking" about the Music Machine group, whose smash record "Talk Talk" is on all the charts. . . . Land lovers and mates, alike, will share mutual pleasure when they anchor in at the Cap'n's Cabin on B Street. Whatever you're sippin', fellow mates John Peat and John Savini make certain you're given "Cap'n's" service. . . . With an outstanding reputation for German food, Dave Rasmussen's Shadows, which is conveniently located on Second Avenue in downtown San Mateo, also has broiler and seafood specialties. . . . Les Zimber, "the hip Hungarian," is featured at the piano in Bud Golob's intimate Bowlero Room of the Camino Bowl, Mountain View, daily at 5:30 p.m. He is joined by his trio at 9:30 p.m. for listening and dancing music.

Joe Lewis

JOE ERCOLI of the South San Francisco Leaning Tower comments: "We haven't made any elaborate claims of our Cannelloni, except word of mouth praise coming from our customers. But we now feel we can state our Cannelloni as being comparable to that served anywhere in the Bay Area. After experimenting for one year," continued the energetic restaurant owner, "serving over 10,000 Cannelloni dinner, and taking notes of our patrons' reactions, we can truthfully say that the customers who order Cannelloni weekly will leave agreeing that this menu favorite is tops." . . . The sound of a cascading waterfall provides an added pleasure when dining at the delightful Charm Garden in Belmont. Delectable delicacies of cultured Chinese cuisine served daily, except Mondays. . . . Kahili Hut owner, Jim Boasso, makes certain the "unwinners" are the way you like them. You name it—from Mai-Tais to Singapore Slings.

Lena Horne

LENA HORNE, who has been making relatively infrequent nightclub appearances of late, is back on the tour and in the swing of things again as she opens a premiere two-week engagement in the Circus Room of the Nugget in Sparks (East Reno) Nevada, November 3 through the 16th. Appearing on the Lena Horne Show in the Nugget's 750-seat theater-restaurant will be the amazing Italian plate spinner, Leonardo, whose juggling feats and balancing of numerous plates simultaneously has been an audience delight from coast to coast. Rounding out the show will be the Dorothy Dorben singers and dancers, the music of Foster Edwards Orchestra, and the Nugget's outstanding performing elephants, Bertha and Tina, trained and presented by C. J. Madison.

THE WORD IS OUT: Les Hylton's Bit of England in Burlingame is the place for savory morsels and fun action. Chef Henri Barbeau serves a buffet luncheon that is cause for raves—and so is the price—$1.25. . . . If you've never taken a steamboat cruise or sipped a Mint Julep, the delightful old Southern atmosphere of the New Southern restaurant, South San Francisco, is for you. The menu ranges from Baked Virginia Ham, Southern Fried Chicken, Veal Scallopini, plus many Continental dishes from which to choose. . . . You can't afford to deprive yourself of the delicious lobster served at Nick's, Rockaway Beach, that cozy reclusive by the sea. After dinner, enjoy the sweet sounds of the Del Carlo Combo in the adjoining lounge. . . . Dining at side-by-side tables a few eves ago at Doros were the Giants' Willie Mays and Mrs. Fess Parker.

Les Hylton

TOM ZUCHELLI, Dino's of San Mateo co-owner, has recently developed a new French dip, and plans an exclusive patent for it. Although the ingredients are "classified," you can marvel at its tastiness by stopping in soon for lunch or dinner. . . . Something new has been added to the recently opened Black Horse in Burlingame: Bob Rosselli and Bob Batnovech are now offering hot and cold hors d'oeuvres to the many patrons who have become "steadys" of their plush lounge. . . . Jim Waller and The Deltras have been slated for a three-week re-run at Bill Gilbert's Tiger Club, starting next Monday. Home of the most beautiful Tiger Kittens in the world, the Tiger Club, managed by Steve Tsipitsis, is open seven days a week. . . . Boneless Chicken Curry a la Bombay (chicken garnished with assorted spices and chutney, served with rice pilaf) is a plate-pleaser at Martinelli's "appy Knight restaurant in Hillsdale.

Tom Zucchelli

Stickney's Also Features Special Banquet Facilities

The beautiful new Stickney's of San Mateo, with special banquet facilities for over 300 people, has recently hosted both the County Dental and Medical Societies, as well as several women's groups. Banquet facilities are located in a special lower level ballroom floor containing a private bar and dance floor.

Papa Bertolucci Visits Restaurant He Originated

Joe Bertolucci, the eighty-year-old papa of Lola Bogdan and Larry Bertolucci, still manages to visit the South San Francisco restaurant he started 32 years ago as Joe's Blue Room, now known as Bertolucci's.

Avoid The Banquet Rush—Make Your Reservations Now

Phil Rauscher, genial general manager of the International Inn, South San Francisco, says the "Inn" is now going into the busiest season of the year. So to avoid the last minute rush, put your reservations in now for the spacious banquet accommodations that prevail here. Selection of dates open.

Musical Action Galore Cabana Hotel Feature

The three-ring circus of entertainment at Palo Alto's plush $5 million Cabana Motor Hotel currently headlines jazz musician Cal Tjader in Nero's Nook each night, Johnny Vaughn and his Orchestra for dinner-dancing in the Bon Vivant every Friday, and strolling guitarist Juan Domico, who entertains during the cocktail hour.

Larry Shulman, owner of the Edgemoor Club, Pacifica's only night club, is more than busy these days making plans for the Edgemoor's gala Halloween party next Sunday night. Judging from all the rumors going around, it should be one of the biggest "blasts" of the season. Prizes for the best costume; hourly door prizes. No cover or minimum.

The Rivingtons and the Fydallions top the entertainment marquee seven nights a week at Don Zirilli's Ember's Lounge in Redwood City. Sunday will be the last night for the Rivingtons, who will begin their tour back East on Monday. The Fydallions will be held over for one more week, by popular demand.

You can revel in the exquisite Chicken Cacciatore at Fabbro's, Redwood City. Owner-host Frank Fabbro, known for his wonderful luncheons, is rapidly becoming famous for his dinner menu.

Recommended dinner for epicureans at the Burlingame La Touraine restaurant: Paupiette de Veau Marie-Louise. Owners Ernest Luisetti and Maurice Brossier also provide an extensive selection of the finest French wines available.

Lew Lehr tells this silly one at his Marina steak house, about the cannibal who says to his chief: "I captured a politician, now can I have a baloney sandwich?"

Favorite drink at the Fior d'Italia on a cold eve is their Caffe Diavolo, or "Coffee of the Devil."

Late Eve Crowd At Rudolfo's Piano Bar

The new piano bar at Rudolfo's in Palo Alto is making a hit with the late-evening crowd. Whether you're a professional singer with year's of experience, or a bathtub baritone, you're always welcome in the cozy cocktail lounge, which is decorated by magnificent luminous paintings of Italy, by Professor Robert Lupetti.

Dine, Dance And Enjoy Life At Blue Peacock

For excellent lunches served throughout the week, and Continental dinners served nightly 5 p.m. to 10 p.m., the Blue Peacock in Millbrae fills the bill. The fabulous Romanos supply the musical notes for dancing on Friday and Saturday nights.

A wide range of new and old melodies are included in pianist Wilbur Stump's repertoire as he presides over the keyboard at the Mesa Club in San Bruno.

The entertainment lineup at the Cameo Club, Palo Alto, includes three Renes: Busty exotics Rene Van Doren, and Renea Renee, and juggler Robert Rene.

With the Bankers' convention in S.F. this week, Phil Lehr again broke all records at his Steakery and elegant new Wellington Room.

Engler's, San Francisco, recently hosted the world renowned 350-member Mormon Tabernacle Choir in their spacious banquet room.

Husky Al St. Clair Finocchio's Favorite

A truly outstanding act that shouldn't be missed, if one desires to remain hip to afterdark entertainment in San Francisco, is Al St. Clair at Finocchio's.

A tall, husky fellow, Al becomes one of America's most glamorous female impersonators every night, and tourists sometimes find it hard to believe he isn't a Hollywood star of the Mamie Van Doren-Marilyn Monroe type. His version of "I Left My Heart in San Francisco" is a real audience pleaser. Al performs with blonde wig, white sequined blouse and black sheath trousers.

Louis Torres stood in the dining room of his Prime Rib Inn in Palo Alto and watched the parade of shapely models at the regular Thursday luncheon fashion show.

"Beautiful girls," sighed Louis. "It's sad to think that 20 years from now, they'll all be five years older."

Clever line used by the emcee at the very night Original Amateur Topless contests at the Moulin Rouge: "Here's your chance girls, to get out of your clothes and into show business."

Oreste's, located at 118 Jones Street in the heart of San Francisco, is known by gourmets for its magnificent Italian cuisine. Aside from the excellence of the food, one of the reasons for the popularity of Oreste's is that one may enjoy a "quickie" lunch or a very high class, fancy one; and this also holds true for dinners.

Re-Elect A Man Worthy Of Your Trust
HE HAS CONSISTENTLY REPRESENTED YOUR BEST INTERESTS IN WASHINGTON, D.C.

THE PEOPLE SPEAK!

Excerpts From Congressman Younger's Mailbox — Thousands of letters are received every year — Here are just a handful which show the outstanding service Congressman Younger renders to the people.

"Thank you for your efforts to obtain appropriations to improve the commercial fisheries research and development act of 1964.
Hugo Fischer, Administrator of Resources
State of California

"Thank you for clearing up my problem with the Social Security Administration. It was beginning to look hopeless until I wrote to you. I am extremely grateful for your outstanding service."
Harriet E. Fleming, Menlo Park, California

"Your warm interest in our rehabilitation program for the mentally retarded during these past years has been gratifying. Everyone associated with the Children's Health Home is appreciative of your invaluable efforts on our behalf both in your capacity as a resident of San Mateo County and in your professional capacity as our representative in Washington.
(Miss) Eve Moeck, Executive Director
Children's Health Home for Mentally Retarded Children and Adults

"... Thank you for supporting the principle of a separate Maritime Administration as you did on roll call August 30th. On behalf of the entire membership we express our gratitude for your interest and support."
Western Shipbuilding Association

"I am a registered Democrat and have been all my life... I want to publicly endorse the re-election of Congressman J. Arthur Younger as one of the finest men in the House of Representatives... He has spent endless hours to see that I receive a just and proper disability payment from the Veterans Administration."
Perry F. Eason, Redwood City

"Thank you for your telegram received today advising us of F.D.I.C. approval. It is certainly comforting to know that we have such an effective 'Man in Washington' who not only 'gets things done for us' but also knows when they happen."
Theodore T. Blumberg
Burlingame, California

"Twice in recent months we have had occasion to turn to our Congressman for help... The response from your office was so prompt and so efficient that I am writing this special note of thanks to let you know that we appreciate our Congressman."
Paul G. Sturges, San Carlos, California

"I am a registered Democrat, but I am being selective in supporting those whose actions and publicly expressed opinions lead me to believe that they seek public office for public service — not special interest or personal aggrandizement. I also recognize the importance of experience, integrity, and vigorous attention to the multiple problems of public office. Because you fulfill these qualifications, I endorse your re-election to the U. S. Congress."

John Alich, Burlingame, California

"I was delighted at the passage of the National Defense Education Act and was particularly pleased to see that it had your support."
Robert E. McKay, Calif. Teachers Assn.

"I once professionally opposed you in an election. But I am delighted now to commend you for the efficiency and dispatch with which you aid the people of your district."
J. F., San Mateo

"... What we need is more men like you who recognize the quagmire of national insolvency into which our country is getting and your fight to protect the people's interests..."
"A Democrat Who Appreciates You"
Jim Healey, Moss Beach

"... In times like these our country needs men like you with your philosophy of government, because it seems that the executive is dominating the scene and we are fast losing sight of the three traditional branches of our government..."
L. T. K., Secty., Steuben Society of America

"DENTAL HEALTH FACTS"

Don't neglect care of baby teeth just because they are eventually replaced. Neglected baby teeth can cause children much harm. Due to this neglect children may not eat many of the nourishing foods they need for proper growth. Neglected baby teeth may have to come out too soon. When a baby tooth comes out too soon, the teeth on both sides of the empty space have time to fill the gap. This crowds the incoming permanent tooth out of its proper place in the mouth.

Dr. Campbell tries to limit his practice to the making of dental plates, partial plates, removable bridges and extractions for same, however, he recommends that you see your dentist at least twice a year in order to help prolong the use of your natural teeth as dentures are not as efficient as healthy, natural teeth.
